ALLEGANY COUNTY.

ALLEGANY COUNTY is in the western division of the State, and is bounded on the east by Washington County, south by the north branch of the Potomac River to the mouth of Savage River, then in a north-easterly direction to summit of Savage Mountain, (which is the dividing line between it and Garrett County,) and on to the Pennsylvania line. This county is crossed by the ranges of the Allegany Mountains, from which it takes its name. The geology is composed principally of sandatone and limestone, with quartz and slate. The most valuable minerals are the vast coal fields and iron ore beds. The soil is of varying character, of sand and clay; in some parts quite fertile, though mostly uncultivated and covered with natural forests. The waters of the county are the north branch of the Potomac and Savage River, and George'a, Wills', Town, Fifteen Mile and Evitt's Creeks, with many tributaries heading in the mountains, and all flowing into the Potomac. The surface of Allegany is broken and irregular, the greater part being in the mountains, and covered with the original forests of fine timbers; whilst between the mountain ridges are many broad and level valleys, which have in most cases rich, deep soil, and are covered with excellent grasses, forming naturally, very fine grazing lands, and yielding large crops of good hay. The landa also make good farms, producing all kinds of grain and fine fruit. Allegany possesses in its immense coal fields the most valuable mineral deposits in the State.

The celebrated Cumberland coal field lies west of the city, in a basin formed by the Great Savage Mountain on the north-west and the Dan's Mountain on the south-east, and running north-east and south-west from Pennsylvania State Line, through Allegany County, into Mineral County, West Virginia. The basin is about five miles wide between the two ranges and about twenty miles long. The floor of the basin slopes from either end upwards to Frostburg, where it attains its greatest altitude, from 2,000 to 2,100 feet above mean tide.

The southern slope of the basin is drained by George's Creek, flowing south-west from Frostburg and emptying into the Potomac River. The northern slope, by Jenning's Run, flowing north-west into Wills' Creek. The aggregate depth of the coal formation here is 1,100 feet, its base being the Millstone Grit. Capping the summits of Savage and Dan's Mountains, it extends down their sides into the valley, where it dips below the surface.

The principal coal veins are, first, the "Big Vein," fourteen feet of coal, lying 1,860 feet above tide. This is the vein from which most of the coal is now mined. It underlies the surface of the valley at Frostburg and Borden Shaft, but southward, down the George's Creek, water has cut away that portion of the measure lying in the lowest part of the valley and with it this vein, (which here must have been very near the surface), leaving the higher parts only of the vein standing in the hills thus formed on either side of the water course. Second, the "Four Foot Vein," which lies about 800 feet below the "Fourteen Foot Vein." This vein is below water in the higher part of the basin; but appears about sixty feet above at Barton, and lies above the level from that point southward, down the George's Creek.

HISTORY OF BRADDOCK'S EXPEDITION,

BY WILL H. LOWDERMILK.

This is a work of great historical interest, and should be found in every library, as it contains much interesting correspondence and material never before published.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

This vein has been opened by the Piedmont Coal and Iron Company, and proves to be equal in quality to the Big Vein, and in the southern portion of the basin lies in such a way as to be easily mined. Lastly, the "Six Foot Vein," which lies 160 feet below the "Four Foot Vein," and is above water level in the lower part of the valley only. This vein is now successfully mined at the New Reading opening, at Westernport. These two lower veins, though smaller in size than the "Big Vein," have a much greater acreage, as but little of either vein has been cut away by erosion. At present the abundant supply contained in the large vein is so easy of access and can be so cheaply mined, that these smaller veins have not received the share of attention which they eventually will. Several new openings other than those mentioned are now being made in these smaller veins, with very encouraging prospects.

The total acreage of coal land in this field is 44,132. Of this, 17,300 acres contain the large "Fourteen Foot Vein," and of course all contain the two smaller veins. Besides these, which are the working veins, there are numerous other small veins, throughout the entire depth of the coal measure; these veins are from six inches to three feet in thickness; they have never received any attention from mining companies or experts, and we are not able to say what may be their actual value in workable coal. The Cumberland coal field is one of extraordinary wealth. Mining began in 1842, and since then over 31,000,000 tons in all, and 2,410,891 tons in a single year, have been sent into the market by twenty companies, the portion of the field now most worked being that between Frostburg and Piedmont, on George's Creek. This immense transportation has been chiefly done over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. In the two principal veins there are estimated to be now 318 000,000 tons, besides several underlying veins not yet developed. The coal occurs in such a manner as to make the expense of working a minimum, being never far from the surface and in veins of great thickness, the one of fourteen feet having no parallel elsewhere.

The coal produced is semi-bituminous, burns very easily and to a very light ash, having no slack or clinker; it is excellent for blacksmithing, and unexcelled for manufacturing purposes generally, being the very best fuel for generating steam. It is largely furnished for the supplies of New England, the State of New York, for steamship purposes, and to all the Atlantic cities, and is largely exported to the West Indies, the eastern and western coasts of South America, California, etc. It is also sent by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and its connections, for manufacturing purposes to Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and many other Western States. This county has also large supplies of iron ores which are smelted in several large furnaces; many undeveloped beds being a very fine description of ore; also, excellent building materials of limestone and sandstone, and large quantities of hydraulic cement; sandstone suitable for manufacturing glass can be found in large quantities on the suburbs of Cumberland. Fine clay, of a very superior quality, is found and manufactured in immense quantities at Mt. Savage. This county has great and almost innumerable water powers, comparatively little used, having only some few grist and saw mills for local uses only. The climate is pure and healthy. The principal productions are corn, oats, buckwheat, potatoes, butter, hay, wool, liquors, leather, coal and lumber.

BARTON

Is on the Cumberland & Penna. Railroad, 5 miles north of Piedmont, W. Va., third division of the Balto. & Ohio R. R., 33 miles from Cumberland via B. & O., 21 by pike, 11 from Frostburg, and 18 from Mt. Savage. The climate is healthy, and the land is mostly cleared out, with some oak, hickory, ash, walnut, beech and chestnut yet standing of a light growth; oak the heaviest. The land is thin and slaty, can be bought for $10 to $12 per acre, and produces 25 bus. oats, 150 bus. potatoes, 25 bus. corn, 12 bus. buckwheat, 10 bus. rye, and a ton of hay; not much wheat raised, average per acre 10 bus. There are no inducements for emigrants, this being a mining town, and all the support of the inhabitants is obtained from that source. Plenty of good water; George's Creek, a small stream, passes here, and furnishes an abundant supply for local use. Peter Goodwin, Postmaster. Population, 1900.

CORRIGANVILLE

Is on the Cumberland & Penna. Railroad, 4 miles north-east of Cumberland, and one-half mile west of Mt. Savage Junction. The location is in a narrow valley of Wills' and Short Mountains. The scenery is grand and sublime. Climate healthy. Land is sand loam and can be bought for $10 to $15 per acre; about one-half of which is cleared. Oak, walnut, chestnut and locust compose the timber yet standing. Jenning's Run and Wills' Creek passes here, and furnishes plenty of good water. There is one good school and one M. E. church, Rev. Mr. Wilson, Pastor. Postmaster, Matthew Corrigan.

CUMBERLAND,

The county seat, is a flourishing town, the second largest and most important town in the State. It is situated at the confluence of Wills' Creek with the North Branch of the Potomac River, and on its left bank. The location is in a basin or amphitheatre formed by the Wills' and Knobly ranges of the great Allegany Mountains, completely surrounding it with mountain ranges and peaks, and it is called the "Queen City." Wills' Creek here bursts through Wills' and Dan's Mountains to join the Potomac, and up the magnificent gap so formed runs the old National Road with its single arched bridge. Here is the superb Queen City Hotel, owned and operated by the Balto. & Ohio Co., from the gallery of which can be seen a pretty yellow stone gothic church, standing on a hill in the heart of the town. Here stood Fort Cumberland, and here was the rendezvous for Braddock's expedition.

The City is on the outer edge of the great coal basin and is connected with it by the Cumberland & Penna. R. R., which runs from Cumberland to Piedmont, through the coal basin, and by the Echart mines branch, which runs from Cumberland to Echart and other mines on the eastern edge of the coal fields. It is the principal shipping point for the celebrated Cumberland coal. It is near the centre of the main stem of that great National highway the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, 204 miles from river navigation at Parkersburg and Wheeling, in West Virginia, and 178 miles from tide-water at Baltimore. The Pittsburgh and Connellsville Branch joins the main stem here and connects it with Pittsburgh, 149 miles, and the oil regions of Pennsylvania. The Bedford and Huntingdon branch of the Pennsylvania Railway connects it with all important points in central and eastern Pennsylvania. The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal has its western terminus here, and connects it with tide-water at Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, and Alexandria, in Virginia.

Cumberland is an incorporated town, and is governed by a Mayor and Board of Councilmen, and has a regularly organized police force. The city is lighted with gas, and is furnished with an abundance of Potomac River water by the "Holly System of Fire Protection and Water Supply." It is well supplied with churches and good schools. Several church buildings are very handsome, and by their picturesque situation and architectural beauty add greatly to the appearance of the "Mountain City." The inhabitants of Cumberland are industrious and enterprising; they are noted for their hospitality and good morals. The city being situated at an elevation of from six to seven hundred feet above tide level, is free from miasma and its climate pure and healthy. It has grown rapidly since the war, and now with cheap fuel and cheap iron, offers unusual facilities for the successful establishment of all classes of iron manufacture. Persons would do well to further acquaint themselves with its facilities before locating elsewhere. The Cumberland Steel Works, an important enterprise, are located near the city; they manufacture a fine quality of steel, and make tool steel a specialty. A. Hunter Boyd, Esq., Attorney-at-Law, State's Attorney for Allegany County, has furnished us with much valuable information in regard to the city and county. His office is No. 3 N. Liberty street, Cumberland. W. H. Lowdermilk, Postmaster. Population 14,000.

ECKHART

Is a mining village near Frostburg, on the Eckhart branch of the Cumberland and Penna. Railroad. It is picturesquely situated in a basin formed by Dan's and Great Savage Mountains, making it one of the most interesting mining villages in the Cumberland coal fields. It has a salubrious and sunny climate, and is one of the most healthy of the coal villages. The land is mostly cleared. The timber yet standing is a heavy growth of oak, hickory, maple and locust. The land is a clay loam and is very productive; can be bought for $20 per acre, and produces 20 bus. oats, 200 bus. potatoes, 40 bus. corn, 15 bus. wheat, 15 bus. rye, 25 bus. buckwheat, and 1½ tons of hay. Trout Run, a clear stream, furnishes an abundance of good water. Crops are generally good. Population 1,000. Post Office, Frostburg.

ELLERSLIE

Is on the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, near the State line and six miles N. W. of Cumberland; it is a village of considerable business enterprise; the Fire-brick Works of Messrs. Gardner, Stuart & Co., employing a number of hands, are located here. It contains a Methodist and a Presbyterian Church, and a good Public School. The situation is in a valley of Wills' Creek, and between two ranges of the Allegany Mountains, making it a beautiful and picturesque location for a town. The climate is healthy, and the land good, varying in price from $5.00 to $200.00 per acre, according to kind and quality. It readily produces 15 bus. of wheat, 55 bus. of corn, 25 bus. of oats, and 75 bus. of potatoes to the acre. Crops are generally good. We are indebted to the Post Mistress, Mrs. Mary A. Shoup, for favors. Population, 126.

FLINTSTONE

Is in the north-eastern section of the County, near the Penna. line, 12 miles from Cumberland. The climate is varied and village healthy. The land is limestone, and slate loam can be bought at from $1.00 to $100 per acre, according to quality and improvements. Produces 30 bus. oats, 50 bus. potatoes, 30 to 40 bus. corn and 15 to 25 bus. wheat. The timber yet standing is a medium growth of oak, ash, pine, walnut, hickory and maple. The land is mostly cleared and there are no inducements to emigrants. Flintstone and Town creeks supply an abundance of cool water. M. E. Church North, Rev. E. E. Anderson; M. E. South, Rev. S. FROSTBURG

Is a growing town, the second largest and most important in Allegany County. It is situated near the headwaters of George's Creek, on a plateau between the Great Savage and Dan's Mountains of the Allegany Range, seventeen hundred feet above tide. The location and climatic conditions are eminently healthy, and the town is already favorably known as a summer resort, notwithstanding the accommodations have hitherto been confined to private entertainment. The great want is a commodious hotel. The almost universal conclusion is, this is a fine opening for a profitable investment.

The town is near the centre of the great George's Creek semi-bituminous coal region, and midway between Cumberland, Md., and Piedmont, West Va., on the line of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad, and enjoys quick connections with the great trunk line railways, east and west.

Frostburg is an incorporated town, governed by a Mayor and a Board of six Councilmen, and has a regularly organized police force. The town is lighted with gas, and is provided with water from the numerous springs on the eastern slope of the Great Savage Mountain, by means of pipes and reservoirs. It contains fourteen churches—the Methodist and Catholic being notable for costliness and fine architectural appearance. Several schools afford excellent educational facilities; two weekly papers provide local news for the people, and two fine halls for the public amusement. The Opera House owned by Thos. H. Paul, is well adapted for all kinds of amusements. Among the stores there are two as stylish establishments as can be found anywhere.

Excepting Virginia City, Nevada, FROSTBURG probably lies higher above tide than any town of equal size in the United States. This altitude affords a view in all directions, rarely excelled for beauty and sublimity anywhere. Eastward, Dan's Mountain running northward, breaks off into a defile traversed by the National Pike and Eckhart Branch of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad. Here nestles the picturesque town of Eckhart, 1½ miles from Frostburg, with 1,000 inhabitants. Southward, the great George's Creek Valley, flanked on the left by Dan's Mountain, and on the right by the Big Savage, stretches seventeen miles away to the Potomac. Traversed by the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad and George's Creek, both of which are fronted with dwellings, make nearly a continuous town the entire way. Aside from its material significance, the tourist cannot fail to be impressed with the scene; every element of nature and handiwork of man being present to lend grandeur and diversity to the prospect. On the west, the rugged, precipitous sides of the Great Savage stand like a bulwark, as it is, against the storms of winter. Continuing northward, the mountain maintains its altitude, breaking off to the right in hills and gentle declivities, until the bed of Jennings' Run is reached. Here another valley opens to view, quite as rich in landscape perspective as the George's Creek. To the right a ridge rises diversified with fertile farms and umbrageous groves all the way over until we reach Eckhart, our starting point.

Standing on the steps of the JOURNAL office, the eye easily sweeps from the hills of Pennsylvania, across Maryland, over into the mountains of West Virginia. A great part of the town is here spread out at our feet. Not far off the site of Braddock's route to Fort DuQuesne, surveyed by Washington, is visible. A monument of that disastrous expedition still stands just outside the corporate limits, noting, it is said, the first day's march from Fort Cumberland—eleven miles. Six miles by air-line to the south-east, Dan's Rock towers high and rugged, overlooking the most extended and varied landscape in all this section. From this point Frostburg and Cumberland are plainly seen; the mountains in all directions, the Potomac and its magnificent bottom lands, farm houses and railroad, comprise a "bird's eye view" which no one can ever wholly forget. The tourist to this section who has not visited Dan's Rock has no conception of the wonderful features with which this region abounds. In short, no town of the size and prominence of Frostburg enjoys in its surroundings a more unique topography; and no point of this array of imposing projections furnishes a more interesting outlook than Dan's Rock.

If to these we add the novelty of our industrial avocations, the salubrity of our atmosphere and purity of our water, we have a series of conditions, which, properly estimated, must sooner or later give the town a commanding prominence as a summer resort.

The inhabitants of Frostburg and vicinity are mainly miners of foreign birth or extraction—made up of English, Welsh, Scotch, Irish, German, etc.; they comprise an industrious, thrifty and intelligent population; of good morals and studious habits, they will compare favorably with any people anywhere. To them the town owes its extraordinary growth since the war, and the coal region its immense development. We are indebted to J. B. Oder, Editor "Journal," for this sketch and other favors. C. H. Walker, Postmaster. Population 5,000.

LONACONING

Is on the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad, 8 miles south of Frostburg, 24 from Cumberland by (C. & P. R. R.) and 18 by a good pike. It is 8 miles from Piedmont, W.Va., and 34 from Cumberland by B. & O. Railroad. The location is pleasant and climate good. The George's Creek valley narrows here to a glen, with steep rocky spurs of the Allegany Mountains. There are two parallel mountain ridges which blank the George's Creek valley. This is an important mining town; there are four companies operating ten openings, capable of producing 27,036 tons per week, and a much larger amount if the demand was sufficient. All the land in the vicinity is owned by the coal companies, and can be had for $15 to $40 per acre, for agricultural; coal land at from $500 to $1000. The land is generally broken, with a small amount that is productive, which is very valuable. The buckwheat, hay and potatoes grown on these lands are of the best quality. It mostly produces 10 bus. wheat, 25 bus. corn, 20 bus. oats, 200 bus. potatoes, 20 bus. rye, 15 bus. buckwheat, and 1½ tons of hay, per acre. The timbered land is a light growth of oak, pine, spruce, maple, chestnut and walnut. There are five good public schools. George's Creek supplies plenty of cool water. Wm. McIndoe, Postmaster. MT. SAVAGE

Is on the Cumberland & Penna. Railroad, nine miles N.W. of Cumberland; the village is situated on surrounding hills, 100 to 300 ft. above the railroad tracks, which are in a valley, making the altitude over 1500 ft. above sea level. The climate is especially fine and healthy. Most all the officers of the Union Mining Co. and of the C. & P. R. R. live here. The population of Mt. Savage is fully up to business requirements. The land is good for potatoes, grain, &c. All the available farming land is cleared. The timbered land is well cut out and thinned; white oak, black oak, red oak, chestnut, sugar maple, hickory, locust, with some white pine yet standing. Land sells exclusive of mineral rights from $200 to $400 per acre and produces an average crop, which is generally good. Mt. Savage first became worthy of note by the erection of a rolling mill in 1839 and two blast furnaces in 1840. The first operations were carried on by a company of English capitalists, but subsequently the property changed hands and was operated by the "Mt. Savage Iron Company," an essentially American concern. In the Mt. Savage Mill were rolled the first rails made on the Western Continent; in honor of which a medal was awarded by the "Franklin Institute." For a number of years these iron works, alternately prosperous and struggling against adverse circumstances, gave employment to a large number of operatives; the population of Mt. Savage being then something over 4,000 souls. In 1868 the mill was closed. At the blast furnace several subsequent attempts were made to compete with more modern furnaces; but at present they too are lying in idleness. Of the rolling mill scarcely a trace is now visible, as it has been dismantled to make room for other works. The present industries from which Mt. Savage derives its life, are: The manufacture of "Mt. Savage" fire brick, (began as early as 1842), iron and brass foundries and the mining of coal and fire clay; all operated by the Union Mining Co. The Mt. Savage Furnace Co., operated by McGowan, Wright & Co. of Pittsburg, James Skelding, Sup't, here manufacture by a new process merchantable pig iron from blast furnace slack and cinder; they employ a number of operatives. On the site of the old rolling mill are being erected new and enlarged works for the manufacture of fire brick and other clay ware, which are expected to be occupied by the beginning of 1878. The old brick works will then be dismantled. There is one public and one private school. St. George's Episcopal Church, Rev. J. W. Nott; M. E., Rev. H. Clay Smith; St. Patrick's Roman Catholic, Rev. MOSCOW

Is on the Cumberland & Penna. Railroad, 11 miles from Frostburg, 5 from Piedmont, and 3 from Lonaconing. Climate good and land medium; mostly cleared; some white oak, beech, chestnut and maple yet standing of a heavy growth. Land can be bought for $25 per acre, and produces 30 bus. oats, 12 bus. wheat, 25 bus. corn, 200 bus. potatoes. Crops are generally good. George's Creek supplies the village with good water. MURLEY'S BRANCH

Is 10¼ miles west of Cumberland, its nearest shipping point. Climate healthy Land is limestone, and can be bought for $30 per acre; produces 25 bus wheat, 50 bus. corn, 30 bus. oats, and 300 bus. potatoes. Chestnut oak bark is found in the mountains, and delivered at $7 and $8 per cord. Murley's Branch, a small stream, rises one-half mile west from under an arched rock. The water is very cold in summer, and warm in winter. Good limestone, sulphur, and warm spring water within 20 yards of each other, can be seen two miles from here. These springs, a natural curiosity, are often visited by strangers. Iron, coal, and other ores are to be found. The mountains, fields and waters abound in game and fish of several varieties. This is considered by the many inhabitants a grand place for a summer resort. Willison & Robinette, Merchants. Amon Wilson, Postmaster.

THE MARYLAND UNION,

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER OF WIDE CIRCULATION AND GREAT INFLUENCE,

Is Published every Thursday Morning,

IN FREDERICK CITY,

By CHARLES COLE.

Subscription Price Per Year, Payable in Advance,

$2.00

The MARYLAND UNION has been published continuously for nearly a quarter of a century, and as an Advertising Medium and a Journal peculiarly adapted to the family circle, there is none to surpass it in the State, outside the city of Baltimore. In politics it is Democratic—offensive to none and respectful to all, though fearless in the expression of its views on all questions. It is to be found in every nook and corner of Frederick County; has a large circulation in the adjoining counties of Maryland, and circulates widely in the border counties of Virginia and Pennsylvania, and, also, in the District of Columbia. Its Advertising Rates are low, and special inducements are offered to yearly advertisers. Few papers in the State are better conducted, and contain more general interest.

Address all communications to

CHARLES COLE,

Editor and Proprietor of the MARYLAND UNION,

FREDERICK CITY.

OCEAN

Is on the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad, and George's Creek, a few miles south of Frostburg. The location is in the celebrated Cumberland coal fields; and all the land in the vicinity is owned or leased by the Consolidation, National, Hampshire, and Baltimore Coal Companies. The price of land is governed by the minerals to be found. Coal property has sold within the last ten yeara from $200 per acre up to $500, with sales as high as $1000; other lands $4, $5 to $10. The timber yet standing is an average growth of oak, spruce, with some chestnut. One M. E. Church, Rev. J. H. Marsh, Pastor and one public school. The land is mountainous and the climate healthy. W. OLD TOWN

Is on the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, and the North Branch of the Potomac River; Green Spring, Second Division Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, is within one-fourth of a mile and affords every convenience for receiving and shipping goods. The land along the river is nearly all owned by a few persons, viz: Elwood Ginevan and Wm. Conely, 700 acres; John Rechembaugh, 200; Isaac Long, 1700; Thomas Young, 800; Luther M. Cresap, 1000; Christian Kelly, 1600 and Mrs. Little, 350. The farms of Messrs. Long, Ginevan & Conely and Christian Kelley, Esq., comprise all the land in the district along the river. It is generally good and can be bought at from $8 to $75 per acre. Crops fair. Produces 6 to 25 bus. wheat, 30 corn, 15 oats and 65 to 250 bus. potatoes per acre. The land away from the river in the hills is very poor, most of it worn out. The Messrs. Appolds of Baltimore and the Carroll heirs own large tracts in this district. Old Town is one of the oldest towns in this county, its ancient name being Leipton. A house is yet standing that was used as a fort by members of the Cresap family to fight the Indians. This family were the first settlers here, one only still living, Luther Martin Cresap, Farmer and Miller; he is now an old man, married, but has no children or near relatives. The Lantz family is also an old family; the only good house in the village is a large brick one, built by them in 1811; there are a great many members of this family still living here and throughout this county and in Virginia. The village containa a new and neat Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. McDonel, Pastor, and one public school. We are under many obligations to Christian Kelley, Esq., owning 1600 acres of good land for this sketch. Population 50. Postoffice, Green Springs, W. Va.

ORLEANS

Is on the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal and Fifteen Mile Creek. Orleans road, 50 miles east of Cumberland by rail, Second Division Balto. & Ohio R. R., is reached by a good ford three quarters of a mile across the Potomac River. Fifteen Mile Creek runs through the district for 12 miles, and takes its name from being fifteen miles from Hancock in Washington Co., and fifteen from Oldtown in Allegany. It is five miles from Sidelin Hill Creek, the dividing line of Washington Co., 42 miles from Cumberland by the county road, nine from Pa. line, and seven from National road. There are 29,896 acres of land owned by Richard Caton, Duchess of Leeds, Emily MacTavish; Lady Stafford and Marchioness of Wellesby. There could be a great many good farms cleared out on these lands, if sold in 150 to 200 acre tracts. Mrs. Eveline Bevans also owns 1777 acres of land in this district, which is very finely timbered, and is said to be underlaid with iron ore and coal. There are some very fine Sulphur Springs on the lands, one in particular, which is known as Carroll's Sulphur Spring, and the water is very fine. The land here is well watered, very fine springs on the top of some of the highest hills. Climate is healthy, and crops fair generally. Land can be bought at from $3 to $10 per acre, and produces 10 bus. wheat, 20 bus. corn, 25 bus. oats and 80 bus. potatoes. There is splendid bass fishing, and plenty of deer, turkeys and all kinds of game in the mountains; and it is a good location for the lumber or sheep business. We are indebted to Thos. WESTERNPORT

Is the southern terminus of the Cumberland & Penna Railroad, and it is one-half mile from Piedmont, W. Va., on the B. & O. The climate is temperate and healthy. Land is fair, not much cleared. Oak, chestnut, pine, beech, maple and walnut, of fine growth, compose the timbered land. Farming land can be bought at from $10 to $12 per acre, and produces 25 bus. oats, 150 bus. potatoes, 25 bus. corn, 12 bus. buckwheat, 10 bus. rye and one ton of hay; not much wheat raised, average per acre, 10 bus. The land sold for farming is done with a reservation; should minerals be developed, the price is to be a fixed rate, by which all these lands are sold. Coal lands sell from $500 to $1000 per acre. No minerals of value developed as yet. Westernport is an incorporated town, and is governed by a board of town commissioners. George's Creek supplies good water. John C. McCulloh, Postmaster. ANNE ARUNDEL

ADVERTISER,

DEMOCRATIC JOURNAL,

ANNAPOLIS.

ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY.

ANNE ARUNDEL is the most centrally situated county of the State, and is bounded on the east by the Chesapeake Bay, south by Calvert County, west by the Patuxent River and Prince George's County, north-west by Howard County, and north by Baltimore County. At its northern extremity it lies immediately opposite to and is connected with Baltimore City by a drawbridge about a mile long. Iron ore abounds in the northern part of the county.

This county is of a rolling character, but has no very elevated points, and, like most of the other counties, has all descriptions of soil. Below Annapolis there is generally a stiffer soil, and mostly an excellent fertile country, and very productive in tobacco and grain. The lands along South and West Rivers are the chief grain producing sections, while those in the upper and central portions of the county are noted for their fine fruits and vegetables. The country between Annapolis and Baltimore is almost entirely cultivated in truck gardens, and sends to the Baltimore markets a large proportion of their finest supplies, producing immense quantities of strawberries, peas, cucumbers, tomatoes, cantaloupes, water-melons, cabbages, &c. This section is highly adapted for this purpose, being mostly a light soil, easily tilled, and, being protected by the elevated lands north of Baltimore, is several days earlier in ripening crops than the soils around the north of the city. The timbers are principally oaks, chestnut, and pines. There are some fisheries in the county though not very extensive, but oysters abound around all the shores south from Sandy Point, and also wild fowl in the season.

ANNAPOLIS,

The capital of the State, county seat of Anne Arundel, is a city and port of entry, situated on the south bank of the Severn River, 2 miles from its entrance into the Chesapeake Bay; 30 miles S. by E. from Baltimore and 37 miles E. by N. of Washington. The Annapolis & Elkridge R. R., 21 miles long, connects it with Baltimore and Washington by rail, and it is in daily communication by steamers with Baltimore and other points on the bay and its tributaries. Annapolis was founded about 1649. The settlement was at first called Providence, afterward Anne Arundeltown; and lastly, having received a city charter in 1708, Annapolis, (i. e. "the city of Anne,") in honor of Queen Anne, who bestowed several valuable presents on the town, giving an organ to one of their churches, &c. The State House where meets the Legislature and the Court of Appeals, is a fine old building, and is located on a beautiful elevation in full view of the bay and near the centre of the city. The State Legislature meets biennially in January, and the Court of Appeals holds its sessions from October to July, with a short intermission in the spring. The U. S. Naval Academy; St. John's College, (a State institution), one of the oldest in the country, and St. Mary's Seminary for priests, (Roman Catholic), are situated here. The city contains large and well attended Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches, also a bank, a market house, 4 newspapers and 4 printing offices, and four good hotels. The Maryland Hotel and the City Hotel are the head-quarters for the sons of Md. when they come biennially to legislate for the State, and lively old times they have in this ancient city during the time of the sitting of the State Legislature, which holds its sessions daily for three months. Annapolis is an incorporated town and is governed by a mayor and board of aldermen, and has a regular police force. The city is lighted with gas and is supplied with plenty of good water. It has a convenient and well protected harbor. Vessels of the largest size anchor with safety in Annapolis Roads, and during the winter of 1877, when access to Baltimore was prevented by the ice, numbers of vessels—many of them foreign barques, sought and found shelter in the harbor of Annapolis. Oyster packing, during eight months of the year, is the principal trade of the place, and the city contains several large establishments for this trade. During the summer the Annapolis Canning Company is busily engaged in putting up fruit and vegetables, chiefly peaches, peas and tomatoes. The citizens of Annapolis are industrious and enterprising, and are noted for their morality and hospitality. The city is healthy and presents many attractions for tourists, pleasure seekers and those wanting homes. Population 10,000. W. O. Bigelow, Postmaster.

STRANGER'S GUIDE TO INTERESTING PARTS.—The State House, built of imported brick. In it are, the Senate Chamber as it was when General Washington resigned; the Executive Chamber, with portraits of all former governors; the State Library and the Court of Appeals. At the foot of the State House Hill are the Treasurer's Office, where the provisional legislators met before the erection of the State House; the Comptroller's Office, the Economy is Wealth.

DAUGHERTY and WRIGHT,

STEAM

BOOK AND JOB

PRINTERS

AND ENGRAVERS,

S. E. Cor. Baltimore & Gay Sts.

Counting Room, 3 S. Gay Street, BALTIMORE.

We respectfully ask your attention to the Printing as executed in our Establishment, believing that an inspection of our work and a consideration of the advantages which we can offer you, will be conducive to our mutual interest. We make Designing and Printing in Colors a special feature in our business, and in order to approach as near as possible to the highest standing in the art, employ as Designers and Engravers men of recognized ability and talent, who will take particular pains to carry out the ideas of our patrons in regard to designs, colors, etc., and to this end furnish sketches, (at low rates,) either plain or in colors, as desired, as often as our patrons wish it, and until the Design and Engraving done by us meets the exact requirements of the case. If design succeeds in pleasing no charge for the sketch will be made.

The Printing Department, as heretofore, is under the immediate personal supervision of the members of the firm, themselves practical printers' of wide experience, and they feel confident, therefore, that they can guarantee to give satisfaction should you favor them with an order. Will take pleasure in submitting estimates and designs.

Every description of Book and Job Work, plain or fancy, including Posters and Newspapers, promptly executed.

Correspondence solicited and all inquiries promptly answered.

Yours to command,

DAUGHERTY & WRIGHT.

Land Office, containing the records of the Colonial Government, and the Office of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, where are found archives under the autograph of General Washington, when Vice-President of the Potomac Company. Gubernatorial Residence, a splendid modernly built edifice, finished February, 1870, is opposite. United States Naval Academy, founded October 10th, 1845, under the Presidency of James K. Polk, is beautifully situated on some fifty acres of ground, fronting Severn River. As an institution for the acquisition of naval knowledge it has, without a doubt, no superior in the world. To visitors it is open from 7 a. m., to 10 p. m. Music on the lawn from 9 to 10 a. m., and from 5 to 7 p. m. United States Naval Hospital, on "Strawberry Hill," is connected with the academy ground by a bridge, and accommodates over three hundred patients. United States Naval Cemetery, on said property, is also a place worthy of note. St. John's College, founded 1784, endowed by Maryland, adjoins the Naval Academy.—It has three large public halls, extensive grounds, a front on Severn River for bathing and boating. A preparatory department is attached, which qualifies students also for other high schools. The Faculty numbers eleven of the best talent in the country. Average attendance 200 pupils. Churches—there are St. Anne's Episcopal, Presbyterian, First and Second Methodist and the St. Mary's (Catholic.) The latter is built on the estate of John Carroll of Carrollton, and with it is connected a college for the education of ecclesiastics.

CALVERT COUNTY.

CALVERT COUNTY lies on the Western shore of Chesapeake Bay, and is one of the smallest counties, being in length about 32 miles, with an average width of about 7 miles, having an area of 235 square miles. This county is a peninsula, and bounded by the Bay on the East, the Patuxent River on the West, and on the North by Anne Arundel County. The surface is undulating, and drains from a central elevation towards the Bay and River, into which numerous little creeks empty.

The soil is a soft fine mold, except on the Patuxent where it is more clayey, and is well adapted to the growth of corn, tobacco and wheat, though the great staple is tobacco. The climate is generally warm and mild. The waters of the Chesapeake and Patuxent abound in the finest fish and oysters; immense quantities of the latter are annually carried to Baltimore and the Northern markets; the trade employing large numbers of men. Tripoli, which is used as a polishing material, is found in many localities, the deposit on the Patuxent being very large. Marl exists also, affording a good fertilizer in many localities. Oak, chestnut, pine and locust are the natural timber growths, and mostly line the navigable waters, and are carried to market.

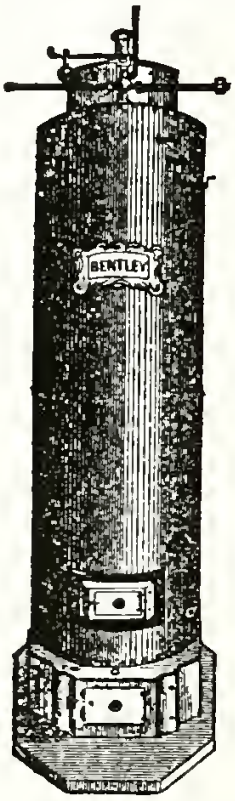
BALTIMORE STEAM BOILER WORKS.



C. W. BENTLEY,

No. 25 S. Front Street,

Near Baltimore St. Bridge, BALTIMORE.

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

STEAM BOILERS,

OIL TANKS,

DOUBLE JACKET LARD KETTLES,

SOAP PANS, SUGAR PANS,

BATH BOILERS,

Smoke Stacks, Oil Stills,

STORAGE TANKS, GAS HOLDERS,

AND EVERY VARIETY OF PLATE IRON WORK.

Our Works have recently been fitted with new and very expensive Machinery, whereby a GREAT IMPROVEMENT is effected in the manufacture of BOILERS, TANKS, &c., producing more close and perfect workmanship with greater rapidity and less cost. All plates are PLANED to the proper bevel for caulking, so that the objectionable practice of splitting the edges of plates to save the expense of chipping the bevel by hand is avoided, and LESS PRESSURE is required in caulking to make the work tight. THE PUNCHING is done so perfectly exact as not to require the use of Drift-pin or Reamer, consequently the seams of Boilers are less liable to crack by use and greater safety and durability is obtained.

The process of Chipping although much better than that of Splitting, is also objectionable. It is difficult to bevel the edge of a plate of boiler-iron and carry the chisel so nicely as not to cut or injure the lower plate more or less. In this way a Channel is often cut entirely through the Skin of the Iron, which renders the Plate weak at the point of the greatest strain. Experiment shows that a slight channel cut across a Bar or Plate of Iron greatly weakens it. This objection I have also done away with by the introduction of my Plate Planer. The only one in Baltimore except at the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Shops for private use.

Particular attention paid to the construction of Cylinder, Return Flue, Locomotive, and Vertical Tubular Boilers. Having introduced the Upright Tubular Boiler to the public in its present form, and been its almost exclusive manufacturer for more than thirty years, until quite recently, I deem it but just to say that my facilities and experience in the manufacture or use of these Boilers are unequalled by any other maker.

All kinds of Steam Fittings; Wrought Iron Pipe, Steam and Water Gauges, Gauge Cocks, Steam Valves, Safety Valves, &c., furnished at the lowest market prices.

NEW and SECOND-HAND BOILERS always on hand. Particular attention will be paid to orders for repairing old work. Castings of every description furnished at the lowest market rates.

PRINCE FREDERICK,

The county seat, is 5 miles from Leach's Wharf on the Patuxent River, the shipping point, and 20 from Brandywine on B. & P. R. R. The situation is in the centre of the peninsula, midway between the Patuxent River and the Bay. Climate generally mild and healthy. The land is mostly cleared; some oak, chestnut, pine and locust yet standing of a light growth. The land is well adapted to the growth of tobacco; and this with wheat and corn comprise the staple products. CAROLINE COUNTY.

CAROLINE COUNTY is of small area, and is bounded on the east by the State of Delaware, north-west and west by Queen Anne's and Talbot, and south by Dorchester counties.

The main branch of the Great Choptank River runs through the county, and is navigated by steamboats to Denton. This, with several creeks, afford excellent facilities for sending produce to market, and in return, obtaining lime, ashes, and manures; scarcely any land lying more than five miles from navigable water.

All kinds of Repairing neatly executed at shortest notice. All work warranted as represented.

Some of its soils are sandy, some are low meadow-lands of rich black earth, but the largest proportion is a loam with a clay subsoil. The last will produce grains, grasses, vegetables, cotton, and tobacco, which latter two are raised in small quantities very successfully for domestic use. The sandy soil is very productive in sweet potatoes, and every variety of vegetables and fruits. Peaches are very largely cultivated and sent to Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York markets.

The general character of the county is level, but sufficiently undulating to afford drainage, and the roads are mostly level and hard, and give very fine travelling facilities. Some excellent fisheries of shad and herring are in the county, and crabs, wild ducks and other game are abundant in their respective seasons.

DENTON,

The county seat, is an ancient little town, situated on the Great Choptank River, 6 miles below the head of navigation of schooners of 100 tons burthen, 150 miles by water to Baltimore, and 90 by rail to Philadelphia. It is incorporated and its government confided to five Commissioners and a Bailiff, who hold their places for one year from the date of their election. Its site has an elevation of from 25 to 30 feet above the level of the river, it is well drained, and consequently has the recommendation of freedom from mud, a pest of most country towns. The main street has well paved side-walks which are well shaded by Maple and Georgia Poplars. It has tri-weekly communication with Baltimore. Ridgely Station, on the Md. & Del. Rail Road, can be reached daily by a ride of 6 miles by stage coach. Street lamps afford light. Water is supplied by pumps and is of excellent quality, though somewhat unpleasant to strangers, being slightly impregnated with iron. The public buildings, viz: the court house and jail (the latter seldom occupied by its appropriate denizens) are built upon a public square of rather more than an acre in extent, filled with shade trees, making it a pleasant resort for the citizens of the town in hot weather, and affording splendid croquet grounds; the square is said to be the largest and prettiest public square on the shore. The court house is built in old English style, having a main building of brick, with wings of the same material on either side. The town is remarkably healthy and equally quiet. It has of places of public worship, for the whites, one Methodist, one Catholic and one Episcopal church, and two churches for the colored people; it has an academy, having a higher and lower department; and two comfortable hotels. The Masonic Fraternity has a commodious hall for their meetings. Population 500. Chas. Stevens Postmaster.

CHURCHES AND PASTORS—M. E., Rev. John E. Smith; P. E., Rev. E. J. Stearns; Roman Catholic, Father John Henchey; Colored M. E., no regular pastor; and one Friends' meeting house.

fertile country. The soil is diversified, the land sandy and clay loams, mostly cleared; can be purchased at from $15 to $50 per acre, and produces 10 to 25 bus. wheat, 15 oats, 15 to 60 corn and 1¼ tons hay. The town is one of large and varied business. There are 2 fruit and vegetable canning establishments, packing and shipping the fruits and vegetables grown in the surrounding country. There is a large steam saw and planing mill, cutting ship and building lumber to order; the same mill produces immense quantities of fruit baskets and crates; the enterprising owners of this mill have built to order and on their own account sea vessels, ranging from 300 to 700 tons. There are large mercantile establishments in the town, doing a thriving business; it has a good hotel, churches and schools. Greensborough Grange 110, P. of H., Wm. J. Clark, Master; Dr. Abiel Bowen, Secretary. Greensborough is an incorporated town and is governed by a board of commissioners. Population 750. W. H. Comegys, Postmaster.

MARYDELL

Is situated immediately on the Md. & Del. R. R., 121 miles from Baltimore and 30 from Easton; it has the unusual fortune of having two counties and two States for its area; it lies mostly in Maryland and partly in Delaware, and derives its name from the abbreviation of those two States. is mild, place healthy and land mostly cleared. It is in the midst of a country whose soil, which consists of sandy loams, is easily cultivated and improved. The land is worth from $15 to $40 per acre, and produces 8 to 20 bus. wheat, 10 to 25 oats and 20 to 40 corn, and a fair amount of other products. Crops are generally good. It is not a pretentious town, but it has celebrity and enterprise; deriving the former from the May—Bennett duel, and exhibiting the latter in its large fruit preserving establishment. This establishment preserves or dries by the SEYMOUR process an immense amount of peaches during the season. There is also here a steam saw mill and agricultural implement factory; in connection with the latter is a sorghum syrup mill; the juice from the cane is evaporated in steam heated pans, invented by the ingenious proprietor, Mr. Wm. W. McKnett, and produces a syrup of dense gravity and excellent flavor. There is not much original forest left, and the timber yet standing is composed of oak, gum, maple, poplar and hickory. Good inducements are offered agriculturalists, fruit growers and truckers. Marydell M. E. Church, Rev. E. H. Hynson; M. E. South, Rev. Mr. Watts. Population 175. James Green, Postmaster.

PRESTON

Is 6 miles from Williamsburg on the Dorchester & Delaware R. R., 3 from Choptank River, 1½ from Hunting Creek and 2 from Medford's Landing, the shipping point. Climate healthy; business, crops and land good; land principally cleared; can be bought at from $10 to $75 per acre, and produces 10 to 20 bus. wheat, 150 potatoes and 20 to 40 corn. The village is elevated, plenty of water power, and not subject to malarial influences; society good; altogether rendering it one of the finest places for residence on the Peninsula. Principal need is capital, combined with enterprise, to create a demand for population and make more demand for home markets for produce. These are some of the inducements offered emigrants to settle here. Churches, schools, (one colored,) mills and good water. Friends' Meeting House; one M. E. Church, Rev. J. Jewell; one academy, J. R. Phillips, principal, and Miss Eugenie Willoughby, Lizzie Wright, James A. Trice, W. E. Harrig and Josiah Adams, teachers. Preston Grange 119, P. of H., W. H. Smith, Master; James E. Douglass, Sec. CARROLL COUNTY.

CARROLL was created by an Act of the General Assembly passed at the session of 1835-36, and again at the succeeding session of 1836-37, and it was organized early in 1837. The county was named in affectionate honor of the then venerable and yet venerated Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the last survivor of the Signers of the Declaration of American Independence. It was formed from the eastern portion of Frederick and the western portion of Baltimore Counties. The soil of a large part of the county is of singular fertility, and especially in the regions known as Pipe Creek Valley, Sam'a Creek Valley, and Bachman's Valley, is unsurpassed as to productiveness, probably by an equal area in the world. The community is essentially agricultural; perhaps, it is more entirely an agricultural county than any other in the State. A large number of considerable fortunes have been amassed by patient industry and prudent painstaking, economy, by farmers, before the advent of railroads and the mighty rush of modern progressiveness. Indeed, every farm, particularly in each of the valleys mentioned, was occupied by an owner, who accumulated surely by slow processes. With the advent of the stock and bond era, came, to many of these careful men, the thirst to grow rich more rapidly. The mines of wealth lying around them were, to an extent, neglected for more shiny ores; and it may be doubted whether, during the new era, the particularly fat and fruitful regions of the county have advanced in substantial wealth. But, as compensation, other large regions, with whose soil nature had been less prodigal of favor, have wonderfully increased in value and productiveness, by the combined agencies of labor, lime, and other fertilizers. In population it is fourth in rank, being exceeded only by Baltimore, Frederick and Washington. In the moderate, comfortable, competence of the people, it is believed to be at least equal to that of any county in the State. There is very little of overgrown wealth, and very little aching poverty. The aggregate wealth is distributed amongst the mass with remarkable comparative equality. It has not one millionaire to curse or bless it as the case might be; considerable number of its citizens own one hundred thousand dollars in value, and perhaps a fraction more, whilst large numbers are possessed of ten, twenty to fifty or sixty thousand dollars, and large numbers yet of smaller sums, but equal stalwart independence and manliness of feeling and sentiments, with any and all their neighbors. Steady moderation is a peculiar characteristic of the people of the county. The juries are distinguished for giving moderate verdicts. The county authorities never subscribe for railroad stocks or bonds; and display no taste for grand undertakings in architecture, or other of the huge arts.

BENJ. LA BREE,

MANAGER.

The people thought they needed one railroad and they built it, substantially, with their own means, so far as they had need for it; but when others thought that it ought to be grander and bigger, and go further, the people listened but kept their hands off their own and their neighbor's pockets, and left to the others to do their own way, in their own way. The products of the county are mainly cereal, and of the dairy. In the southern part of the county the land is adapted to tobacco, and formerly large quantities were produced, and smaller quantities are still produced. Limestone is superabundant, and facilities for the improvement of the soil are all that can be reasonably expected, or desired, by men willing to work. The lands of Carroll, like those of all other counties, in all other States, have shrunk in salable value, until that which only has any actual intrinsic value, (which is the only basis of all values,) has hardly any market price. Consequently there is more or less opportunity for men of moderate means, and who desire to increase them by honest labor, to come in and make homes, and raise their own corn, bacon and grapes; nature has not exhausted her beneficence, in Carroll at all events; and keeps in store, even grapes, for those who will plant and tend the vines. Every man's palate and his children's palates may be refreshed and gladdened, if only he be willing, in earnest. The soil is of great variety, but each variety is yielding to the touch of labor, and sends out its fruits with a sort of joyful gladness, to meet that honest touch. The surface is rolling and variegated, presenting no flat lands, or standing water, nor mountainous heights, but a succession of valleys and hills, all of which are of easy cultivation from base to summit, and yet presenting sceneries of much general beauty. The principal streams are Little and Big Pipe Creeks, Sam's Creek, Morgan's Run, and the north and south branches of the Patapsco, each affording fine water powers, many of which are appropriated by numerous flour mills and minor manufacturing enterprises. The north branch of the Patapsco has its rise at Westminster, and, within two miles of its head, acquires large proportions, increasing in volume steadily until it reaches Finksburg Station on the Western Md. R. R. This road runs immediately by the side of the stream from this station to its head, about 9 miles. A flouring mill of good capacities is very near the head of the stream; a short distance below is a large and important tannery, conducted by Messrs. Bear; again a flouring mill, and these are the only appropriations, thus far, of the numerous magnificent water powers with which the stream abounds. The attention of manufacturers ought to be, and will assuredly, in time, be attracted to the peculiar advantages offered by the succession of powers, within this short distance; one amongst which is an entire immunity from destructive floods, growing out of the fact that the head of the stream is too near to permit sudden large accumulations of water. In healthfulness this county is unsurpassed. There are no local causes for diseases of any kind; chills and fevers and mosquitoes are unknown. At New Windsor, a flourishing village on the W. M. R. R., surrounded by as beautiful country as earth contains, there has been carried on for several years a fine hotel and boarding house, which has been extensively resorted to during the summer months. At Westminster there are several good hotels and comfortable boarding houses, which have become resorts, to a moderate extent, for a few years past; and during the past summer the City Hotel was opened to visitors, and patronized to the full measure of its capacity, after extensive additions and improvements had been made, enabling accommodation for largely over one hundred guests. Westminster is believed to be now as agreeable a summer resort for moderate people in search of health and comfort only, as can be found anywhere. Taneytown, one of the oldest villages in the State, abounds in health and comforts; so of Uniontown, a sweet, clean, inviting village, and so also of Manchester, Hampstead, Union Bridge and other smaller towns, which are scattered through the county, and all which invite the toil worn and city-be-grimmed to the quiet repose and pure healthful comforts of God's own beautiful and gracious devisings, which He has properly scattered around them all. The county, when formed, had one bank, one of the first chartered in the State, and conducted with great skill and profit to its stockholders, and some advantage to the community perhaps. It still continues, having renewed its youth, and dispensing its benefits to its stockholders anyhow, to say no more, under the broad ægis of the U. S. Three young and lusty sisters have been added to the family, so that now we are blessed with four, almost enough. The Western Maryland College, under the general patronage of the Methodist Protestant Church, is located at Westminster, and is a vigorous institution of most respectable standing, with an able, careful and laboring faculty. Calvert College, at New Windsor, is resuming the usefulness and regaining the position which it occupied for many years, and up to the war, under the energetic control of its founder, Mr. Andrew H. Baker. It was his own private enterprise, and a most honorable one; but its weight, under the reverses occasioned by the war, crushed him. Its magnificent location at New Windsor, and fine buildings, finely arranged and again occupied, remain and invite more extensive use than is now made of them. A private academy of high grade is conducted by A. McKinney, near Taneytown, excluded from all contact with the distractions of the outside world. There are other respectable private schools. The public school system is in healthful condition throughout the county, at an annual expenditure of about fifty thousand dollars. At Union Bridge are the workshops of the W. M. R. R., and several minor manufacturing establishments; so also at Manchester are some manufactories, and at New Windsor. At Westminster is located a very extensive and important establishment, the "Taylor Manufacturing Company," which does a large business in the manufacturing of vertical, horizontal and stationary engines, which are in demand in all parts of the country, from Maine to Texas. The engines manufactured by this company have some peculiar excellencies not yet attained by other establishments; this at least is the inference from the very extended demand for its products from almost all other localities. The agriculture of the county is in an advanced state, with room, however, for improvement by added labor. The capacities for manufacturers, especially the water powers, strongly invite more enterprise. The men of the county are perhaps equal to the average of their neighbors of the State, but are not pretentious, and in fact possess no title to superiority over the mass of mankind; and if there be any, the number is very limited, who conceive themselves to be above the common average of their neighbors. Moderation is a characteristic of Carroll County.

FREEDOM

Is 4 miles from Sykesville, on the B. & O. R. R, and adjacent to Morgan's Run and Piney Falls, which furnish a plentiful supply of water. Country exceedingly healthy, business medium, crops good. The land is mostly cleared, is a sandy loam with clay subsoil, easily cultivated and susceptible of improvement, equal to any in the State; it varies in price from $10 to $50 per acre, and produces 15 to 37 bus. wheat, 20 to 40 oats, 100 potatoes, and 1 to 2½ tons hay. Plenty of timber yet standing for all purposes. Any quantity of land for sale at cheap prices. The Patterson estate containing 1,800 acres, and owned by the daughter, is within ½ mile of this place; it is in a high state of cultivation, made so by judicious farming with plenty of lime. MANCHESTER

Is 2 miles from Melrose on the Bachman Valley R. R., by pike 10 from Westminster, and 30 from Baltimore; it is 900 ft. above tidewater. From the hills adjoining the town a wide and rich landscape spreads out into Pennsylvania, and the far-off mountains on the west and north. The business of the place is not very active; trade has been diminished by the Bachman Valley and W. M. R. Roads. It is hoped that it will be restored when the Hanover & Baltimore R. R. is put in operation, which is now in process of construction, and will reach the town by a short branch. Climate and health good. Land is three-fourths cleared; the soil is of a red, gravelly formation, easily tilled and capable of high fertility. The land varies in price from $20 to $60 per acre, and produces 10 to 25 bus. wheat, 15 to 35 oats, 15 to 50 corn, and 1 to 2 tons hay. The timber yet standing is composed of oaks and chestnut. Public School, Dr. Hanson Drach, principal, Geo. Shower, teacher. Select Private School, Jacob Balthausen, principal. The town is incorporated and is governed by a mayor and five councilmen. Population 700. E. A. Ganter, Postmaster.

UNION BRIDGE

Is a thriving and important town on the W. M. R. R., 12 miles from Westminster and 45 from Baltimore. Climate and health good. It has a large trade in grain, lumber and coal. The town was originally known by the name of "Buttersburg," derived from the quantity and quality of butter taken in exchange for merchandise, by one of the early merchants of the place. It was made a post village in 1810, and the present name given to it. It is to this town that the proud honor belongs of having given the first conception of the reaping machine to America. Jacob B. Thomas, a resident of the place, gave birth to this conception, and so far completed his plans as to put a reaping machine with automatic attachment, in the harvest of 1811. This machine was pushed by men, and like many of the earlier productions of inventors, was a partial failure. It did, however, cut and gather grain, but its crudeness subjected the inventor to ridicule, and his sensitive spirit could not cope with this and the incredulity of his neighbors; he abandoned his work and left the glory to be gathered by his cousin, Obed Hussey, who, taking up the Union Bridge model, perfected it into an operative machine, and thus became known to fame as the pioneer of reaping machines. Capt. Daniel Rinehart, a brother of the sculptor and producer of Clytie, lives but a short distance south; it was upon a marble quarry, upon his elegant farm, that the young Rinehart first attempted to give life to the cold marble. There is a charming succession of meadows, fields and hills surrounding the town, and all fat with richness; and from a hill one mile west of Union Bridge, the eye rests upon a scene beyond description. Off to the north-west, in towering grandeur, are the Catoctin Mountains, which serve as a background to the ever varying hill, dale, meadow and wildwood. To the south, verdant fields rolling, rising and receding, hide behind nestling forests, clothed in the drapery of autumn's richest foliage. It is here that the artist can find many views superior to the beautiful, natural scenery, already upon canvas, in Corcoran's art gallery; it is here that the Maryland farmer is a millionaire, his lime fields are gold fields; here substantial houses, costly barns, neat, enduring fences—all tell that prosperity is at home. The soil is of limestone and old red sandstone, and varies in price from $50 to $150 per acre, and produces 15 to 40 bus. wheat, 30 to 60 oats, 40 to 90 corn, and 1½ to 3 tons hay. There is a flourishing cabinet furniture manufactory here; one high, one public and a private school, under the management of the Friends. The town is incorporated and is governed by a mayor and board of councilmen. Population 600. Moses Shaw, Postmaster.

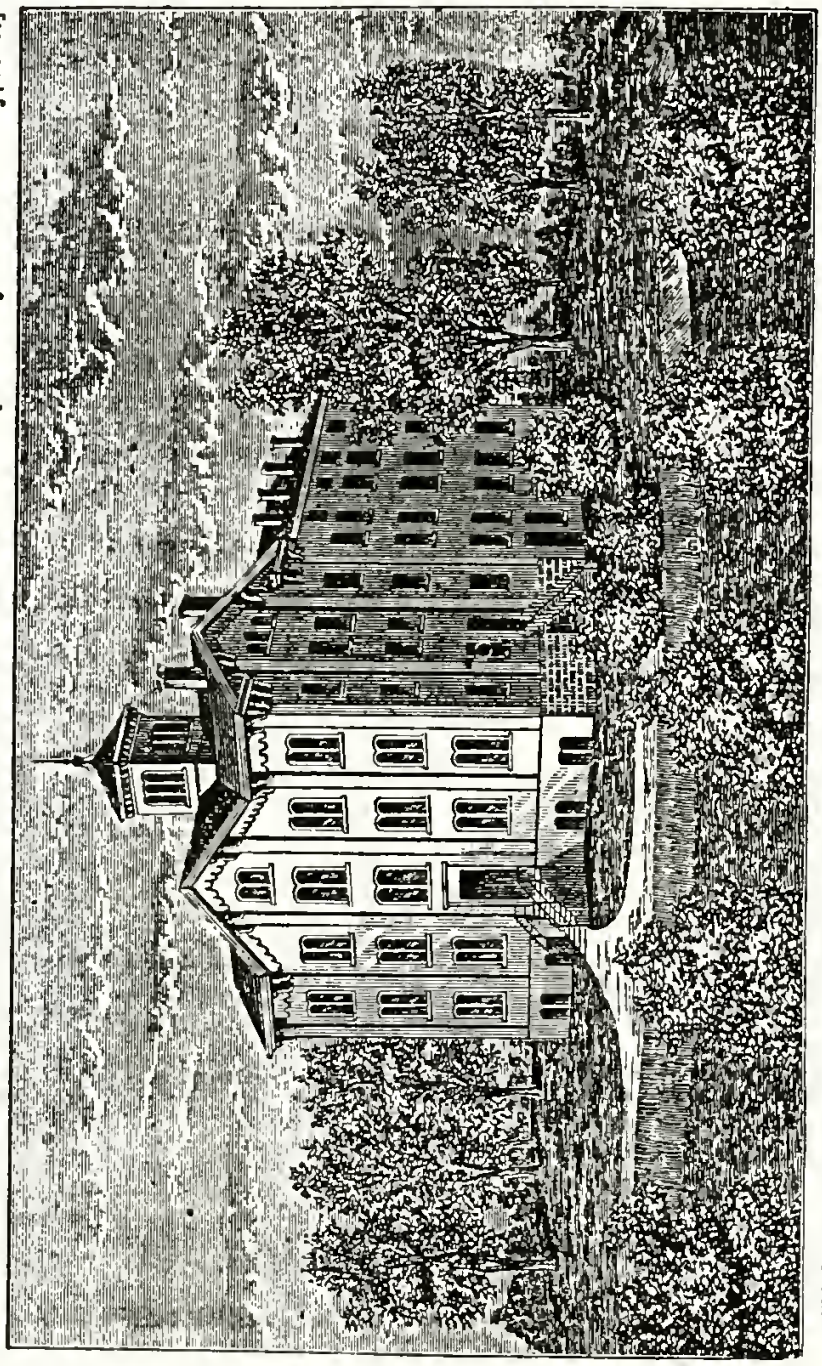
WESTERN MARYLAND COLLEGE.—[Incorporated by Act of Assembly, 1868.]



The Institution has now been in successful operation for nine years. Students of both sexes received and thoroughly educated at reasonable charges. The Location of this College is one of the very best in the State. The Building stands upon a commanding eminence, overlooking many miles of rich and beautiful country, as well as the flourishing city of Westminster, immediately on the line of the Western Maryland Railroad, and about equi-distant from the cities of Baltimore and Hagerstown. The peculiar feature of this College is the co-education of the sexes in Distinct Departments, enabling parents to have their sons and daughters educated in the same institution, and under the same instruction, and yet with all the advantages of separate institutions, each having a Complete Corps of Instructors. The Institution is under the special patronage and control of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, but has nothing either in its course of study or disciplinary management, which can be, in any way, objectionable to students of other religious persuasions.

☞ For SCHOLARSHIPS, apply to the College Agent,

WESTMINSTER

The county seat, is situated at the head waters of the Patapsco, immediately on Parr's Ridge, 1,000 feet above tide and on the W. M. R. R., 33 miles from Baltimore. It was founded in 1766 by an English family, from whom it received the name "Winchester," which was afterward changed by an act of the General Assembly to Westminster. The year after the county was created (1836), it was incorporated as a city and selected as the county seat. This old city is in some respects interesting. Lying as it does between two ranges of Parr's Ridge, its surroundings are picturesque and romantic. On College Hill, a beautiful undulating country for many miles may be seen from the cupola a view of the mountains is obtained, extending from the Potomac to the Susquehanna, while at your feet, as it were, is Westminster, with its tall church steeples, fine public buildings and handsome private residences The surrounding country is as healthy, rich and productive agricultural region as any in the State; it is well watered by the Patapsco and other streams, which afford ample power for all kinds of manufacturing establishments. Iron and copper ore abound in large deposits, and are successfully mined and shipped to Pennsylvania and New York. Quarries, containing the finest varieties of marble, have been opened and are worked in the vicinity. Westminster contains the usual number of county buildings, all well adapted to the purposes for which they were erected. The fair grounds are located at the west end, contains 30 acres of land, with stabling to accommodate 500 head of stock; the track is elliptical in form half mile, and is nearly level. The Western Md. College, a fine four-story brick building, is located on the highest site around Westminster; it is well arranged and adapted to the purpose for which it was founded. The Democratic Advocate building, corner Main and Court streets, 40x80 feet, two-stories high, is well fitted to be the headquarters for this ably conducted and largely circulated Maryland newspaper. The Cemetery, containing 14 acres of land, is beautifully laid out in walks and drives, and planted with shrubbery, The Churches are mostly built in the best style of ecclesiastical architecture. some of them very beautiful; and the private residences of the inhabitants are broad, comfortable, substantial structures, suggesting a thrifty and contented community. Population 3,000. A. H. Huber, Postmaster.

CECIL COUNTY.

CECIL COUNTY was organized in 1674, and named in honor of Cecilius Lord Baltimore. It is the most northern of the Eastern Shore counties, and forms the north-east corner of the State, being bounded on the north by Pennsylvania, on the east by Delaware, (the celebrated Mason and Dixon's line separating the three States,) on the south by Sassafras River, and west by Chesapeake Bay and Susquehanna River.

This County is one of the most thriving and enterprising in the State. The character of the land is mixed, the part above the Bay being mostly rolling and quite hilly, like the Western Shore, and below Elkton, quite level and similar to the adjoining Eastern Shore counties. The soil comprises every variety; a considerable portion centrally situated, called "The Barrens," being pure sand and gravel, (though this section has of late much improved), whilst other parts have heavier clayey soil, mixed rocky, and the lower part an excellent light clay loam. The County is well populated, and the farming and improvements generally are in advance of the average throughout the State.

Wheat, oats and corn are the staple farm productions; very large crops of hay are raised and sent to Baltimore and elsewhere in bales. In the southern part, known as Sassafras Neck, are many large peach farms. The crop is very large and profitable here.

Cecil County possesses inexhaustible quarries of excellent granite at Port

Deposit, on the Susquehanna River. Soapstone exists on the same river, and in the northern part near Pennsylvania are large beds of iron ore and chrome, comprising a good proportion of the most valuable chrome mines in the world. Near North East River are extensive deposits of clay suitable for making fire-bricks, and, laterally, discoveries are reported of kaolin or porcelain clay of a fine quality. At North East fire-brick is manufactured extensively by two firms. They give employment to a large number of persons, and their goods find a ready sale. Here are also the extensive rolling mills of the McCullough Iron Co., and a razor-strop factory, making this quite a manufacturing village.

The County is well watered and possesses some of the best water-powers, which are in most cases well improved with large furnaces, forges, rolling mills, paper, grist, and saw mills. All the paper used by the Baltimore Sun and Philadelphia Ledger is manufactured at mills a few miles from Elkton.

"Gilpin's Falls," on Great North East Creek, is a wild and romantic place, and is also a great water-power, which is at present not used. The creek falls about a hundred feet in a very short distance. Cecil has the largest number of shad and herring fisheries of any county in the State extending from the mouth of the Susquehanna River around the bay and river shores into the Sassafras River. These shores also afford abundance of wild fowl in season. The County enjoys excellent facilities for transportation.

CHARLESTOWN

Is near a station on the P. W. & B. R. R. of that name, 40 miles from Baltimore. It is beautifully located on the west bank of the North East River, and commands a picturesque view of the Chesapeake Bay for over 20 miles. It is regularly laid out into streets and squares, and is one of the most pleasant locations in the State for a town. You can in almost any part take in at a glance the North East, Elk, Sassafras and Susquehanna Rivers, with their hundreds of sails. It is healthy at all seasons; the farms are highly productive and worked by intelligent and enterprising men. Fishing is carried on to a considerable extent from the waters in the vicinity, which abound in fish of several varieties. The land is clay and sandy loam, principally cleared; can be bought at from $25 to $40 per acre, and yields 20 bus. wheat, 50 oats, 100 potatoes, 40 to 50 corn, and 1½ tons hay. M. E. Church, Rev. CHESAPEAKE CITY

Is picturesquely and advantageously situated on the Elk River, 12 miles from its entrance into the Chesapeake Bay, and at the western terminus of the Chesapeake and Delaware canal. Here enters Back Creek into the Elk River, giving another water advantage to the town. This rare combination of water facilities give unequalled resources for all the purposes of trade and manufactures. No place is better located for fruit and vegetable canning and drying houses. Daily steamers (Ericsson Line) to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, place these large cities in easy and cheap communication. The surrounding country produces the peach, the pear and apple in the finest perfection. Grapes, berries and all market vegetables are produced with ease and remarkable success. The town is equi-distant 60 miles between Baltimore and Philadelphia, and is 6 miles from Elkton. There is one other shipping point, Bohemia Wharf, on the Bohemia River, 5 miles distant. Sailing vessels go from this point to Baltimore. The climate is mild and equable, and the health very good. The waters of the Canal are strongly impregnated with the sulphate of iron, brought down from the "Deep Cut." This agent prevents even incipient stagnation in the waters of the Canal, and thus exerts a controlling influence upon the general health. Business is large and increasing. The town is on a portion of the famed "Bohemia" Manor. The soil of the adjacent country is composed of red clay and sand loams, with occasional recurrences of white oak clay; it commands $25 to $75 per acre, and produces crops of wheat varying in yield from 10 to 30 bus., the same of oats, corn 20 to 60, and hay from 1 to 2 tons. It is an incorporated town, and is governed by a President and Town Commissioners. Population 1,500. A. P. Barwick, Postmaster.

CONOWINGO

Is on the Columbia & Port Deposit R. R., 7 miles from Port Deposit. Conowingo Creek, a small stream, flows through the town. Climate mild and healthy. Business, crops and land good. Land is hilly, and varies in price from $50 to $100 per acre. Produces a fair average of all farm products. Conowingo is divided by the Susquehanna river, the western part being situated in Harford county, (called West Conowingo,) and eastern part in Cecil county, (called East Conowingo,) connected by Conowingo bridge, a very commodious structure, and profitable to the stockholders, the only bridge across the river between Havre de Grace, Md., and Columbia, Pa. There are good shipping facilities by railroad and by the Susquehanna River and Tidewater Canal. The Independent Telegraph Company, having direct wires, is located here. James C. Bell, a wealthy gentleman, owns 1,000 acres of land, wqich he has and continues to improve. There is considerable timber yet standing on hills and along the river. The scenery on the Susquehanna at this point is truly romantic. Good schools and churches are 1½ miles distant. Population 150. C. C. Caldwell, Postmaster.

ELKTON,

The county seat, is on the P. W. & B. R. R., 52 miles from Baltimore, and 46 from Philadelphia. The situation is at the head of Big Elk river, a small winding stream, navigable to its head only for the smallest craft. It is in the midst of a fertile and well tilled country, the soil of which is a light loam. At the present time these lands command an average of $40 per acre, and yield from 15 to 30 bus. wheat, 30 oats, 100 potatoes, 40 corn and 2 tons timothy hay. The principal woods are oak, chestnut, hickory, walnut, locust and some pine. The town has a fair business, and some manufacturing interests. NORTH EAST,

An incorporated town, is situated on the P. W. & B. R. R., at the head of North East river, 46 miles from Baltimore, and 52 from Philadelphia. The location is in a fertile and healthy country, soil of which is composed of sandy and clay loams, well adapted to the production of grain and hay, the latter of which extensive crops are raised. These lands vary in value from $10 to $100 per acre, and produce 15 to 30 bus. wheat, 20 to 50 oats, 50 to 150 potatoes, 25 to 60 corn, and 1 to 2 tons hay. North East offers large inducements to emigrants in its advantages for fruit growing, trucking and remunerative farming. Business is good, having several manufacturing establishments, which give employment to a large number of persons. Here are the forges, furnaces and rolling mills of the McCullough Iron Company, and two large fire brick companies, which manufacture a superior line of all descriptions of ware. The goods from these establishments rank high in the estimation of stove founders and furnace proprietors. The Cecil Fire Brick Company, by a judicious combination of various clays and other materials, give great durability and cohesiveness to their goods. The manufactory of J. H. White & Co., removed from Philadelphia, produce and ship to all points of the country immense quantities of patent razor strops, spectacle and eye-glass cases. One of the most complete general stores in the county, is located here, under the management of Messrs. Thomas & Anderson. There are one public and two private schools and three churches; among the latter is the very ancient, quaint and interesting St. Mary Ann, Episcopal. This church dates back to Colonial days; among its weather stained tomb-stones are those dating far in the seventeenth century; its bible is over a century in age. Population 1,800. L. W. PERRYVILLE

Is on the P. W. & B. R. R., 37 miles from Baltimore, and is beautifully situated on the east bank of the Susquehanna river, near its mouth. The railroad here crosses the river over a bridge, consisting of thirteen iron spans, and is the longest and finest piece of railroad bridge architecture in the world. An important industry is duck shooting; large numbers are shot, and shipped to Baltimore and Philadelphia markets. Adjoining the station are beautiful flower gardens, and a splendid park has been laid out by the railroad company. The scenery is truly grand and romantic. The farms are well cultivated, and no liquor sold. The ice houses of Messrs. Cochran & Co. and W. H. Oler, large Baltimore ice dealers, are located on the river bank, and near the depot. These firms give employment to a number of people during the season, and are an important element of the business of the place. Land is good, the average price $100 per acre; produces 25 bus. wheat, 50 corn, 50 oats and 2 tons hay. M. E. and Presbyterian churches; one public school. Population 250. W. H. Cole, Postmaster.

PORT DEPOSIT

Is on the east bank of the Susquehanna river, 3¼ miles from Perryville, on the P. W. & B. R. R., 41 from Baltimore, and at the terminus of the P. & B. C. R. R., and the Port Deposit and Columbia railroads. Climate good and place healthy. It is a bustling, thriving, quaint town, compressed by the Susquehanna against the rock-bound cliffs, which rise almost perpendicularly to the height of one and two hundred feet. There is room only for two streets along the face of the river. Most of the houses on the eastern side of the main street jut against these cliffs. Some have terraces rising from the rear yards, far up the cliffs. The Hon. Jacob Tome has a magnificent dwelling here of roughly dressed granite, chaste in its architecture, and elaborately embellished by extensive conservatories and gardens. He has greatly enriched the town by his enterprise and munificence, and presented to the trustees of the M. E. Church, a strikingly handsome structure of granite roughly dressed, and adorned with stained glass windows, at a cost of $65,000. The land adjacent to the town is of rotten rock soil, ¾ cleared, and valued at from $25 to $100 per acre, and yields 15 to 25 bus. wheat, 25 to 50 oats, 40 to 75 corn, 150 potatoes and 2½ tons timothy hay. It has extensive granite quarries, and a large trade in lumber, hay, grain and fertilizers, and an extensive foundry and machine shops. The timber yet remaining is composed of oak, hickory, chestnut, walnut, poplar and cedar. Three public schools, two colored and two private schools. The town is incorporated, and governed by commissioners. Population 2,200, Alonzo Snow, Postmaster.

CHURCHES AND PASTORS—M. E., Rev. J. D. Rigg; Presbyterian, Rev. T. J. Aiken; P. E., Rev. G. W. Easter; Roman Catholic, Rev. Father Joseph Barry, and two colored, no regular pastors.

RISING SUN

Is charmingly nestled on a hill of easy grade in the midst of a fertile, salubrious and beautiful country, immediately on the Phila. & Balto. Central R. R., 52 miles from Baltimore, 60 from Philadelphia, 11 from Port Deposit, 16 from Elkton, the county seat, by county road, 2 from Pennsylvania State line, and near Stony Run, a small stream. The town is well and handsomely built, flourishing in its business, embracing commercial and manufacturing. The lands are valuable, principally cleared, producing large crops of the best timothy hay. The wheat and corn crops are heavy. Lands range in price from $40 to $70 per acre. Soil is known as "gray rock," and produces 15 to 30 bus. wheat, 30 to 50 oats, 40 to 80 corn, and 1½ to 3 tons hay. The timber yet remaining comprises white and black oaks, hickory, chestnut, beech and some walnut. The inhabitants of this town and the adjacent country are of high moral character, intelligent, cultivated, and of kindly and courteous spirit. M. E. Church, Rev. Wm. J. O'Neil; public and a normal school; Good Templars and Excelsior 67, I. O. O. F. Population 400. Jesse A. Kirk, Postmaster.

CHARLES COUNTY.

CHARLES COUNTY, containing an area of 499 square miles, and occupying the southwestern part of the State, is bounded on the west and south by the Potomac River, which here makes a large curve in its course. Prince George's County binds it on the north, and St. Mary's on the southeast. The county is entirely devoted to agriculture, the principal crops being tobacco, corn and wheat. Tobacco is the staple production, of which large crops are raised. Fruits, berries and vegetables are also produced to a limited extent, although the soil and climate are well suited to their growth. Fine fish and oysters abound plentifully on the shores of the numerous creeks; also game and wild fowl in season. The surface of the county is generally low and sandy, but sufficiently rolling to be well drained by the many streams flowing into the bordering rivers. The soil is easily improved and well adapted to the growth of all kinds of crops, with fruits, vegetables, hay and stock raising. Climate is mild and healthy, temperate in winter and pleasant in summer. The county offers unusual inducements to emigrants in its favorable climate, cheap lands, nearness to navigable waters, good soil, easy of access to markets, churches, schools, &c. The construction of the Pope's Creek Branch of the B. & P. R. R. affords quick and convenient communication for a large portion of the county with the markets of Baltimore and Washington; and the waters of the Patuxent, Potomac and Wicomico Rivers also furnish cheap means of transportation for the products of the county. Many farms border on these waters, and the planters use their own landings or wharves. The county has a splendid outlet on the Patuxent at Benedict. The river front is here from three to four miles, and is available at all seasons. The county needs emigration to till the soil and to start mills, factories and shops. There are splendid openings in several good localities for mills and mechanics. Many farmers are compelled to go long distances for these facilities. We unhesitatingly recommend all seeking good homes to visit this county before locating.

DORCHESTER COUNTY.

DORCHESTER COUNTY is one of the Eastern Shore counties, and extends from the Chesapeake Bay to the Delaware State line, and is bounded on the south-east by the Nanticoke River, which separates it from Wicomico County, and on the north by the Choptank River, which is between it and Talbot County, and by Caroline County.

The county contains an area of 770 square miles. The surface is generally level and easily tilled. The upper part is sufficiently undulating to create some water-powers, which are in some cases improved by grist and saw mills. The soil is variable and of the same character with most of this shore of the Bay. It ranges from a stiff clay to a light sand, and in many places a black loam. No better lands are known than those along the banks of the Choptank River. Shell manure, which is to be found in some localities, affords a good fertilizer. Oak, hickory, pine and walnut are the natural timbers, and are abundant, and largely exported for ship building, cord wood, lumber and other purposes.

A good part of the county is uncultivated, but where well tilled the land is generally quite productive. The favorable climate, water, and general location of the county is attracting the attention of emigrants and others, and quite an addition to the population has been made in the past five years. Wheat and corn are the staple farm productions, with large quantities of fruits, berries, and vegetables. The production of peaches is largely increasing, and becoming very profitable. Shad and herring fisheries are numerous and generally do a fair business, the trade of some localities being almost entirely of this kind, whilst most all sections have plentiful supplies of fresh fish. Oysters are very abundant and of the finest kind, the county taking in some of the upper part of the great oyster beds of Tangier Sound, the most famous oyster field of the State.

Several firms are largely engaged at Cambridge in packing and shipping these oysters, adding much to the trade of that already growing and prosperous town.

The county is almost surrounded by navigable waters, and is intersected by the Transquaking, Chicacomico, Honga and Black Water Rivers, also Church, Fishing, Slaughter's and other creeks, which give the county facilities for transportation not excelled by any other locality in the State. The construction of the Dorchester & Delaware Railroad, extending from Cambridge to Seaford in Delaware, places a large part of the county within quick and convenient communication at all seasons with Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. The section through which this road runs has and continues to improve. Settlers have been attracted and many farms sold. Dorchester County presents many attractions to emigrants, and large numbers have already settled in several localities. Good water, fertile lands, churches, schools, healthy climate, plenty of fish, oysters and wild fowl, are some of the inducements here offered.

furnishes one of the chief attractions to strangers, who indulge in boating, bathing, fishing and the sports usually sought by pleasure-seekers, while the natives and others find it a source of revenue from the oysters that abound in its bottoms, and the ducks and geese which haunt its creeks and coves.

The town is of great antiquity, as evidenced by the style of architecture in which some of the houses are built, the material in a few instances having been brought from the mother country. They are open, southern, commodious, and surrounded by ample and neatly kept grounds, with lawns and gardens. The grounds of some slope down to the water of Cambridge Creek, where the banks are terraced and protected by low parapet walls.

At the present day no town on the Peninsula is making more rapid growth. Its population has increased fifty per cent. within the last eight years. It is lighted with gas, and mainly supplied with water from pumps, wells and cisterns. Its mechanics all find employment, and numbers from Baltimore and elsewhere have had constant work at remunerative wages. Upwards of three hundred houses have been erected during the past five years. Enterprizes of different kinds have sprung up, stimulated no doubt by the excellent facilities of transportation to Philadelphia, distant only 140 miles by railroad, over which daily trains are passing; and to Baltimore, distant about 70 miles, to and from which are daily lines of handsome and commodious steamers.

The oyster trade is considerable, both by canning and shipments in their natural state. Four packing-houses are in active operation, while others at this writing but projected will soon increase the number. The largest and most complete flour mill on the Eastern Shore has just been completed. A marine railway gives employment to many, and does the repairing of boats built and heretofore repaired in the city. Numerous saw-mills are busily engaged in converting the choice timber of the surrounding neighborhood into good and merchantable lumber.

The people are refined, educated and hospitable. The climate is healthy, and seldom severe; the people look ruddy, and consumption is seldom known.

The land is a clay loam, mostly cleared. Oak, pine, gum and maple comprise the timber standing. Lands range in price from $10 to $100 per acre, according to location and improvements. Produces 10 to 40 bus. wheat, 10 to 70 oats, 100 to 250 potatoes, 20 to 75 corn, 2 to 3 tons hay; tobacco not raised as a crop. Crops and business generally good.

The town is incorporated, the management of its municipal affairs being entrusted to a Board of five Commissioners, whose ordinances and edicts are scrupulously carried out by a faithful bailiff, who constitutes the police force. The only public building of note is the Court House, a handsome edifice of brick, built in 1852, said to be the most convenient in the State. The Jail, located in the rear of the Court House, is an old building, erected in the last century, and not at all in keeping with the other buildings. Efforts, however, are making to supplant it with a new and more modern one.

Previous to the hurricane of September, 1876, a beautiful willow grove ornamented a deep vale on one side of the Court House, where excursion parties during the hot months enjoyed the cool shade and the water of a delightful, sheltered spring. But the hurricane desolated the vale and prostrated the noble trees.

The Government, appreciating the importance of this location, has expended considerable money in connection with private capital in digging out the Cambridge Creek and widening the channel, so that at all times the town has a safe harbor and plenty of water. Many people from Delaware and the lower counties of Maryland avail themselves of the steamboats plying between Cambridge and Baltimore for traveling and freight purposes. The

FEDERALSBURG

Is 24 miles from Cambridge, and is a thrifty, growing village, the division line between Caroline and Dorchester counties. The N. W. fork of Nanticoke River and the Dorchester & Delaware Rail Road pass through the village; its position, therefore, as a business point, is most eligible. There are two churches, Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian; a wide-awake weekly newspaper, Maryland Courier, two handsome public school buildings, several saw-mills, one flouring mill, located on one of the most extensive water-powers in the State; two temperance hotels, one foundry, and several mechanics' shops. The streets in the village are wide, most of the dwelling houses are finely shaded, and many of them have handsome flower gardens attached, while none are built in "blocks," but all have ample grounds for vegetable and fruit gardens. By a special act of the Legislature, passed 12 years ago, the sale of all intoxicating liquors was prohibited, and the law has never been violated; consequently the moral standing of the community is of the highest order. Climate mild and salubrious. Land, sandy loam with clay sub-soil; one-half cleared; oaks, pine, gum and maple are the timber yet standing; land sells at an average of $15 per acre. Yields 10 to 25 bus. wheat, 100 to 150 potatoes, 20 to 50 corn, and 1 to 1½ tons hay. M. E. Church, Rev. Isaac Jewell; Presbyterian, Rev. E. L. Boing; M. E., colored, Rev. J. E. Webb; two public schools, one colored. Nanticoke Lodge 172, A. F. and A. M.; Ivy Grange 52, P. of H., I. S. Warren, Master, H. P. Chambers, Secretary. Population 1000. P. Allen, Postmaster.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

FREDERICK COUNTY ranks with the largest counties, having an area of 642 square miles, and is bounded on the North by Pennsylvania, on the East by Carroll County, South-easterly by Montgomery County, South by the Potomac River and Virginia, and on the West by the Blue Ridge, or South Mountains, separating it from Washington County.

This is one of the richest and most beautiful counties of the State. The soil is mostly limestone, with some slaty and considerable "red lands." The surface is undulating—partly mountainous—the Catoctin Mountains dividing the county into two broad valleys, that to the Westward being known as the Middletown valley, which is drained by the Catoctin River and its branches; and that East of the Catoctin range is the valley of the Monocacy. Both rivers flow Southward into the Potomac. These two great valleys are unsurpassed for rural beauty, and excellent farming, and produce extraordinary crops of the principal grains of this latitude. The Eastern slope of the Catoctin Mountain is a most excellent grape country.

The county is well watered by innumerable pure springs which flow into the branches of the rivers before named, and create abundance of water-powers which are improved by large grist and saw mills, and merchant or flour mills. There are also a number of other mills, tanneries, and various domestic manufactures. An immense water-power unimproved, exists on the Potomac River at Weverton. The narrow valley between the Monocacy and Buckeystown has a rich deposit of a marl composed of lime and earthy substance, which extends to a considerable depth; this with the limestone yield an inexhaustible supply of manure.

Copper mines in the Linganore section have been worked since the Revolutionary war. Near Liberty and New London are several mines, now extensively operated. There are several slate quarries, one of which near Ijamsville on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad produces a large supply of excellent roofing material. Along the side of Catoctin Mountain iron ore abounds, of the brown hematite species. Some of these beds although worked for 80 years seem to be inexhaustible. From Woodsborough to the Potomac is a range of limestone marble unusually pure, varying in color from blue to dove color. It takes a beautiful polish, and is similar to the famed Italian marbles of that color. At the foot of Catoctin Mountain there is a similar bed, and one resembling verde antique. West of Frederick is another kind of variegated shades of light and dark red, and on the West side of Monocacy is found the variety widely known, from having been used for the columns in the old hall of the House of Representatives of the Capitol at Washington. Frederick County is centrally traversed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, with a branch from Point of Rocks through Montgomery County direct to Washington, materially shortening the distance from the West to the National Capital, at the same time affording needed facilities to the local sections through which it passes. The Chesapeake & Ohio Canal runs along the Southern boarder near the Potomac River, and the Western Md. Railroad along the Eastern boarder to Hagerstown and Williamsport, with connections at the York Road in Carroll County with the Frederick and Pennsylvania division of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for Frederick and other points in the county. The county enjoys good facilities for transportation to all sections and is rapidly increasing in wealth and prosperity.

WESTERN MARYLAND HOTEL,

Emmittsburg,

D. G. ADELSBERGER, - - Proprietor.

The Hotel is conducted in first-class style, and is one of the best outside of the city of Baltimore. It is situated on the Public Square, and is convenient to the Depot, all the Stores, Churches, Post-Office, Telegraph Office, Doctors, &c. A room is at all times ready for the purpose of allowing Travelling Merchants to show their goods. Every attention will be given to guests to make them comfortable. ☞ Permanent and Transient Boarders accommodated on reasonable terms. The Hotel is daily supplied with which now belong to the Proprietor of the Hotel, and are fitted up for the use of guests of the Hotel and others. The Crystal Iron Springs cover about 10 Acres of Land on which is a Grove, three Lakes, one of which covers about one acre of land, for Boating; a Pavilion for Dancing; Baths, Fountains, Summerhouses, &c. The Springs are on the side of the mountains, overlooking the Town of Emmittsburg and St. Joseph's Academy, and a view of ten miles. The water flows from a bed of iron ore and other minerals—Iron, Magnesia, Manganese and Lime, all being the principal ingredients of the water, which is now very much sought after. It is also prescribed by Physicians, gives a good appetite, strengthens the nervous system, and improves the health of all. ☞ The House is supplied with Baths.

The Proprietor has connected with the Hotel one of the finest Liveries in the State; Horses that ladies can ride and drive, and Ponies that children can ride. Any person needing the use of Carriages, Buggies, or Horses, can be accommodated on reasonable terms. The Proprietor having a large Vegetable Garden of his own, on mountain soil, and raising all his own vegetables in abundance, his guests will have the advantage of everything in that line fresh.

☞ The Grounds at the Springs are also fitted up for the Accommodation of PIC-NICS from home and abroad. ☜

Is situated at the terminus of the railroad of that name, and 7 miles from Rocky Ridge on the W. Md. R. R. The location is in a fertile and diversified country, the surroundings of which are rich in mountain and valley scenery. To the West, Jack's Mountain and Carrick's Knob may be seen towering hundreds of feet in the akies and then sloping in graceful lines to the productive and beautiful valley below. The magnificent scenery, purity of the atmosphere, good mountain water, cordiality and refinement of the people make it a great place of summer resort; it is also enriched by educational institutions of great merit and celebrity. St. Joseph's Academy, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, and Mount St. Mary's College, an institution of high endowment and character, are both near the town. There are also two Public Schools for whites, one for colored, and a Catholic Parochial School. The land adjacent is composed of red sandstone, quartz and limestone; varies in price from $20 to $60 per acre, according to location and improvements; yields 15 to 30 bus. wheat, 20 to 40 oats, 50 to 150 potatoes, 20 to 50 corn, and 2 tons hay. Massasoit Tribe 41, I. O. R. M.; Junior Building Association. Population 900. Samuel N. McNair, Postmaster.

FREDERICK CITY,

The County seat, is beautifully situated in a rich, fertile valley, 3 miles from Frederick Junction on the Main Stem of the B. & O. R. R, and connected with it by a branch road, over which daily trains are run. The Frederick and Pa. Line R. R. also afford good accommodations for freight and passengers to local points in Md. and Pa., and Baltimore and other cities can also be reached by this route. The land surrounding the city is limestone, well improved, and produces large crops of wheat, corn, oats, hay and potatoes. Some of the finest farms in Md. are to be seen near here. The city ranks as the third city in the State; is incorporated and well built, the houses being generally of brick or stone; the streets are broad, straight, and laid out regularly. It contains a fine Court House and other county buildings, a magnificent City Hall, 2 Colleges, 2 Female Seminaries, a number of handsome Churches, and several excellent public and private schools. The Deaf and Dumb Asylum, a State institution, is located here. The fruit and vegetable packing establishment of Louis McMurray, Esq., is near the city, and in busy season affords employment for a large number of people, thus materially adding to the prosperity of the city. Frederick City is renowned for its good health, cleanliness, pure mountain air, good water, its wealth and refinement, and the sterling business habits of its citizens. It enjoys good hotel accommodations. The City Hotel, Col. F. B. Carlin, proprietor, has long been recognised as one of the best in the State. Population 10,000. C. W. Miller, Postmaster.

MIDDLETOWN

Is on the old National Pike, 8 miles west of Frederick, and one mile from the Catoctin, a tributary of the Potomac; it lies between the Catoctin and Blue Ridge Mountains, in the beautiful, fertile and salubrious valley bearing its own name. The approach to this town from the East is full of varied and pleasing interest; from the mountains, looking Westward, on towards the Blue Ridge, an unsurpassed picture of wide and diversified landscape, flanked on either hand by mountain ranges, rolls upward and downward before the eyes of the charmed observer; from this point the town is seen lifting its spires above the hills which environ it on the east. The whole valley lies outspread, rich, smiling and fruitful; farms, lusty barns, dwellings, orchards, and mills attest the fatness of the land. The soil is composed of clay and quartz; land mostly cleared, is valued at from $25 to $80 per acre, and produces 10 to 20 bus. wheat, 15 to 30 oats, 25 to 60 corn and 1 to 2¼ tons hay. Crops generally good. The forest is composed of oaks, hickory, chestnut and some walnut and poplar. There are five schools, two public and three private. Population 800. A. C. Bragonier, Postmaster.

WOODSBORO

Is on the Frederick & Pennsylvania R. R. and Woodsboro turnpike; it is 55¼ miles from Baltimore, 10¼ from Frederick, and near Israel's Creek and the Monocacy River; it lies in the midst of a fertile and salubrious country. The lands are of diversified formation and pleasingly undulating; the chief formations are of limestone, blue and yellow slate and the old red sandstone; they vary in value from $25 to $100 per acre, and yield 8 to 20 bus. wheat, 15 to 35 oats, 25 to 50 corn and from 1 to 2 tons hay; about seven-eighths of the lands are cleared of timber, and that yet remaining is composed of chestnut, oak and hickory. Woodsboro points with affectionate pride to the old edifice which gave rest and refreshment to Washington, when he encamped his foot-sore army on their march to Philadelphia, on the adjacant hills. The town was then on the great highway from the South, by way of Frederick, York and Lancaster, to Philadelphia. The old house which served Washington for his headquarters, was built of split logs and filled in with mortar and stone; it is now incorporated in a stone and brick building. The old house subsequently became a tavern, and bore, until the last quarter century, the sign of Washington mounted on his charger. The town was plotted in the colonial days by Col. Joseph Wood, who afterwards served in the war of Independence. A lenial descendant of Col. Dr. H. L. Donsife yet preserves the old original charter of the town, now nearly 100 years old. There is yet standing, in good preservation, the old edifice of Col. Wood, built in the old English style of bricks imported by him from England. The town was named in honor of Col. Wood. There is within 1½ miles of the town rich deposits of magnetic iron ore, which were extensively mined when the iron trade was flourishing. There is also most excellent hematite iron ore in the neighborhood. German Reformed Church, Rev. Orange E. Lake; Lutheran, Rev. D. N. LaMotte; M. E, Rev. C. C. Cronin; M. P., Rev. J. R. Nicholls, and one public school. Population 350. John A. Baker, Postmaster.

MONEY! $100,000! MONEY!

TO LOAN IN SUMS TO SUIT,

BENJAMIN'S

Old Central Loan and Banking Office,

No. 22 N. GAY STREET, near Fayette,

Established by the late Levi Benjamin, 1830. BALTIMORE.

This old and responsible office still continues to make the largest advances on GOODS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION and on Merchandise in general. The very great advantages we offer to the public in making their deposits at our office are that we keep the same for twelve months, if so agreed upon, and on lower rates of charges than any other office in the city. Large amounts loaned as low as 1 per cent. per month.

N. B.—This office has no connection with any of the Pawnbrokers in this city. Private entrance adjoining.

GARRETT COUNTY.

GARRETT COUNTY, the last formed county in Maryland, is the extreme Western division of the State, and is bounded on the east by Allegany County, south by the North Branch of the Potomac River, west by the State line of West Virginia, north by Mason and Dixon's line, and contains an area of six hundred and seventy aquare miles of territory. Is crossed its entire length north and south by the Great Savage Mountain, a distance of over forty miles. This Main Ridge of the Alleganies divides the east and western waters. Two-thirds of the territory of the county lies west of this Summit Ridge; on the east is the Maryland Coal Basin, one-third of which is in Garrett County; on the west, flowing north from the south end of the county, is the Youghiougheny River and Castleman's River, draining with their tributaries and other valuable but undeveloped coal and iron region. The streams flowing from the west side into the Youghiougheny are Laurel River, Snowy Creek, Harrington, Muddy Creek, and Buffalo Creek; on the east side, Cherry Creek, Little Youghiougheny, Deep Creek, Lary Run, Bare Creek, and Mill Run. The Savage River has its sources and tributaries in this county, and empties into the North Branch of the Potomac, at the extreme eastern end of Garrett County.

The geology is composed of sand stone, lime stone of fine quality, and stone coal of fine quality, as above stated. No county in the State contains more valuable mineral deposits in coal and iron ore. The elevated table lands on the western side of the Savage Mountain, and between that and Meadow Mountain, covering an area of four hundred square miles, is an elevation of two thousand five hundred feet above tide, comparatively level; is about one-third glade, interspersed regularly by ridge or timber land, and is admitted to be the best grazing portion of the State; is only partially settled, and offers superior advantages for farming and stock raising. Immense forests of timber cover large portions of the county. Pine, oak, maple, and all hard wood found in high latitudes of the best quality. Products, wheat, corn, rye, buckwheat, oats, potatoes, wool and butter. Grass grows naturally on the glades, and timothy and clover in abundance follow cultivation. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad passes from east to west, a distance of thirty miles, through the southern end of the county, and the National Road through the northern end of the county a distance of over twenty miles.

HARFORD COUNTY.

HARFORD COUNTY is of medium size, having an area of 480 square miles, is the North-eastern corner of the Western shore, and is bounded on the east and south-east by the Susquehanna River and Chesapeake Bay, on the north by Pennsylvania, and on the west and south-west by Baltimore County. This county possesses a great variety of soils, the lower part being level, and composed of some sandy and some clay lands, but mostly of a light loam, very easily worked and improved. The section called the Necks has mostly very fine and large farms, with extensive peach orchards. The country above the Philadelphia turnpike is undulating and in some parts very hilly, the soil comprising clay, light loam, and considerable limestone, the last mentioned being mostly found in the upper part of the county.

This county is well watered by branches emptying into the Little Gunpowder River, and Winter's and Binum's Runs, which flow southward into the Chesapeake, and by Deer Creek and its tributaries, which drain the northern part of the county, and flow into the Susquehanna. "The Rocks of Deer Creek" is one of the most romantic spots in the State, and well worth a visit of the admirers of the great works of nature. These rocks form a great promontory projecting over the road, passing along the bank of the Creek.

Perhaps no county in the State has improved more in appearance, fertility and general prosperity, during the last few years, than Harford. The productions are wheat, buckwheat, oats, corn and hay. This county possesses fine water powers, improved by furnaces, factories, foundries, flour mills, and numerous saw and grist mills. In this county are large quarries of excellent building stone of a gneiss or granite character. The county possesses large beds of iron ore, asbestos, and some of the most valuable chrome beds in the world. Near the Pennsylvania line, extensive slate quarries have been worked, and near Abingdon there exists a very large deposit of kaolin or porcelain clay, of a pure white color, very good quality, fit for making fine porcelain ware. Very large shad and herring fisheries are located around the Susquehanna and Bay shore, and innumerable flocks of wild fowl swarm around the tide waters of the county, and afford with the fisheries a good business for many of the inhabitants of that region.

The Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad passes through the county from Havre de Grace, and the Tidewater Canal runs along the west bank of the Susquehanna, having its outlet at Havre de Grace. The Baltimore, Towsontown and Delta Railroad, which is now being laid out, when constructed, will give additional facilities to a large portion of the county.

BEL AIR,

The county seat, is pleasantly situated, 9 miles from Edgewood on the P. W. & B. R. R., and connected with it by a fine public road, over which stages pass daily, thus placing it in easy and quick communication with Baltimore and Philadelphia. The location is beautiful, and in the midst of one of the most fertile agricultural regions in the State, and surrounded by many highly cultivated farms. The town enjoys a temperate climate, and has excellent water power. The land is composed of red and gray loam, with clay subsoil, is mostly cleared; some oaks, hickory, chestnut, beech, [illegible]st, walnut and maple yet standing. Land sells at from $20 to $60 per [illegible], according to location and improvements; produces 15 to 25 bus. wheat, 20 to 50 oats, 30 to 60 corn, and 2 tons hay. Bel Air is incorporated, and has the usual number of comfortable county buildings, also an academy, and several public and private schools for whites and colored. Mt. Ararat Lodge 44, A. F. & A. M. EDGEWOOD

Is on the P. W. & B. R. R., 21 miles from Baltimore and 9 miles from Bel Air; it is located in a diversified, improved and generally fertile country, enriched and beautified by tasteful dwellings and ornamental grounds; it is equidistant from the Gunpowder and Bush Rivers, on a ridge which declines by such easy lines on either hand as to lead the eye to suppose the whole peninsula a uniform plain. Gen'l Cadwallader's magnificent domain of nearly 10,000 acres adjoins the place, and extends away to the shores of both of the above mentioned rivers. This is a noted point for sportsmen, the rivers abounding with fish and crabs in the summer, and in the autumn and winter they afford to the canvas back and red head ducks, celery grass and other marine plants, which will impart in 24 hours to these lordly water fowl, that high perfection of flavor so prized by epicures. These rivers are so famed that they are visited by sportsmen from remote points. The health of the place is generally good, subjected in early autumn to slight malarial diseases. Soil is composed of sand and clay loams; lands one-half cleared, vary in value from $20 to $50 per acre, and produce 10 to 20 bus. wheat, 25 to 50 oats, 25 to 60 corn, 100 potatoes and 2 tons hay. HAVRE DE GRACE

Is one of the oldest towns in the State, a settlement having been made here about the same time Claiborne settled Kent Island, in 1634 or '5. Several houses are still standing, dating back over a century. The town is beautifully located on the south bank of and near the mouth of the Susquehanna River, where it empties into the Chesapeake Bay. It occupies a portion of a plain extensive enough to contain a city equal to London; flanked on the west by gracefully rising hills of checkered green and gold, while further in the background, rising to greater heights, are the laureled-browed mountains overlooking the river. Along the eastern front winds the bright, majestic river, emptying just below the town into the wide extended arms of the lovely Chesapeake, whose blue waters are here and there gemmed with emerald islands rising from the shining surface.

The harbor is said to closely resemble that of Rio de Janeiro, the most beautiful in the world. History tells us that General Lafayette recognised a striking resemblance in the harbor and surrounding scenery, to that of Harve, (formerly Harve de Grace) in France, and it is said, that owing to the expression of Lafayette's, the name of the town was changed to Havre de Grace.

The Susquehanna, extending more than four hundred miles to the great lakes, and draining, as it does, a district more rich in agricultural and mineral products than any other on the continent, makes Havre de Grace the cheapest and most natural outlet to the seaboard for the products of the pine forests, petroleum districts, and the great anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania. With water and railroad communication to all points of the compass, in close proximity to the great Atlantic cities and commercial centres, within two hours by rail of the capital, and about four to the metropolis of the nation, in the midst of a rich agricultural country, abounding in wood and water; the waters in the immediate vicinity yielding in great abundance and at the cheapest rates, the most desirable varieties of fish and water fowl, make, when combined with a genial and salubrious climate, Havre de Grace a delightful and desirable place of residence, either for business or leisure.

The town is incorporated and governed by a Board of five Commissioners, elected annually; it is handsomely laid out with wide streets. The general architecture of the town is not costly or imposing. The houses are neat, and the flourishing gardens and yards, ornamented with shrubbery and flowers, display the cultured taste of the residents.

The manufactures, consisting mainly in a steam merchant flouring mill, two canning establishments, a bone grinding and fertilizing factory, an extensive saw and plaining mill, and a double track marine railway, capable of hauling out the largest class vessels.

The shad and herring fisheries in the immediate vicinity afford employment to many, and add considerable to the business of the town. During the fall and winter, quite a number of the residents are engaged in ducking, and a large revenue is derived from this source. Another branch of industry, in favorable seasons, is the cutting and storing of ice; as much as 200,000 tons have been cut in one season. Probably the largest business carried on here is the re-shipping of anthracite coal. Two of the great mining and carrying companies are represented—the Penna. and the Reading, the former by Messrs. Hilles, Boyd & Co., and the latter by A. P. McCombs & Co.

There are here several fine Churches, a Town Hall, Odd Fellow's Hall, a High and Primary Schools, for white and colored. Population 2,000. T. M. Sumption, Postmaster.

ern part of the county, and flow into the Susquehanna. "The Rocks of Deer Creek" is one of the most romantic spots in the State, and well worth a visit of the admirers of the great works of nature. These rocks form a great promontory projecting over the road, passing along the bank of the Creek.

Perhaps no county in the State has improved more in appearance, fertility and general prosperity, during the last few years, than Harford. The productions are wheat, buckwheat, oats, corn and hay. This county possesses fine water powers, improved by furnaces, factories, foundries, flour mills, and numerous saw and grist mills. In this county are large quarries of excellent building stone of a gneiss or granite character. The county possesses large beds of iron ore, asbestos, and some of the most valuable chrome beds in the world. Near the Pennsylvania line, extensive slate quarries have been worked, and near Abingdon there exists a very large deposit of kaolin or porcelain clay, of a pure white color, very good quality, fit for making fine porcelain ware. Very large shad and herring fisheries are located around the Susquehanna and Bay shore, and innumerable flocks of wild fowl swarm around the tide waters of the county, and afford with the fisheries a good business for many of the inhabitants of that region.

The Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad passes through the county from Havre de Grace, and the Tidewater Canal runs along the west bank of the Susquehanna, having its outlet at Havre de Grace. The Baltimore, Towsontown and Delta Railroad, which is now being laid out, when constructed, will give additional facilities to a large portion of the county.

BEL AIR,

The county seat, is pleasantly situated, 9 miles from Edgewood on the P. W. & B. R. R., and connected with it by a fine public road, over which stages pass daily, thus placing it in easy and quick communication with Baltimore and Philadelphia. The location is beautiful, and in the midst of one of the most fertile agricultural regions in the State, and surrounded by many highly cultivated farms. The town enjoys a temperate climate, and has excellent water power. The land is composed of red and gray loam, with clay subsoil, is mostly cleared; some oaks, hickory, chestnut, beech, [illegible]st, walnut and maple yet standing. Land sells at from $20 to $60 per [illegible], according to location and improvements; produces 15 to 25 bus. wheat, 20 to 50 oats, 30 to 60 corn, and 2 tons hay. Bel Air is incorporated, and has the usual number of comfortable county buildings, also an academy, and several public and private schools for whites and colored. Mt. Ararat Lodge 44, A. F. & A. M. Population 1,000. John T. Spicer, Postmaster.

EDGEWOOD

Is on the P. W. & B. R. R., 21 miles from Baltimore and 9 miles from Bel Air; it is located in a diversified, improved and generally fertile conntry, enriched and beautified by tasteful dwellings and ornamental grounds; it is equidistant from the Gunpowder and Bush Rivers, on a ridge which declines by such easy lines on either hand as to lead the eye to suppose the whole peninsula a uniform plain. Gen'l Cadwallader's magnificent domain of nearly 10,000 acres adjoins the place, and extends away to the shores of both of the above mentioned rivers. This is a noted point for sportsmen, the rivers abounding with fish and crabs in the summer, and in the autumn and winter they afford to the canvas back and red head ducks, celery grass and other marine plants, which will impart in 24 hours to these lordly water fowl, that high perfection of flavor so prized by epicures. These rivers are so famed that they are visited by sportsmen from remote points. The health of the place is generally good, subjected in early autumn to slight malarial diseases. Soil is composed of sand and clay loams; lands one-half cleared, vary in value from $20 to $50 per acre, and produce 10 to 20 bus. wheat, 25 to 50 oats, 25 to 60 corn, 100 potatoes and 2 tons hay. HAVRE DE GRACE

Is one of the oldest towns in the State, a settlement having been made here about the same time Claiborne settled Kent Island, in 1634 or '5. Several houses are still standing, dating back over a century. The town is beautifully located on the south bank of and near the mouth of the Susquehanna River, where it empties into the Chesapeake Bay. It occupies a portion of a plain extensive enough to contain a city equal to London; flanked on the west by gracefully rising hills of checkered green and gold, while further in the background, rising to greater heights, are the laureled-browed mountains overlooking the river. Along the eastern front winds the bright, majestic river, emptying just below the town into the wide extended arms of the lovely Chesapeake, whose blue waters are here and there gemmed with emerald islands rising from the shining surface.

The harbor is said to closely resemble that of Rio de Janeiro, the most beautiful in the world. History tells us that General Lafayette recognised a striking resemblance in the harbor and surrounding scenery, to that of Harve, (formerly Harve de Grace) in France, and it is said, that owing to the expression of Lafayette's, the name of the town was changed to Havre de Grace.

The Susquehanna, extending more than four hundred miles to the great lakes, and draining, as it does, a district more rich in agricultural and mineral products than any other on the continent, makes Havre de Grace the cheapest and most natural outlet to the seaboard for the products of the pine forests, petroleum districts, and the great anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania. With water and railroad communication to all points of the compass, in close proximity to the great Atlantic cities and commercial centres, within two hours by rail of the capital, and about four to the metropolis of the nation, in the midst of a rich agricultural country, abounding in wood and water; the waters in the immediate vicinity yielding in great abundance and at the cheapest rates, the most desirable varieties of fish and water fowl, make, when combined with a genial and salubrious climate, Havre de Grace a delightful and desirable place of residence, either for business or leisure.

The town is incorporated and governed by a Board of five Commissioners, elected annually; it is handsomely laid out with wide streets. The general architecture of the town is not costly or imposing. The houses are neat, and the flourishing gardens and yards, ornamented with shrubbery and flowers, display the cultured taste of the residents.

The manufactures, consisting mainly in a steam merchant flouring mill, two canning establishments, a bone grinding and fertilizing factory, an extensive saw and plaining mill, and a double track marine railway, capable of hauling out the largest class vessels.

The shad and herring fisheries in the immediate vicinity afford employment to many, and add considerable to the business of the town. During the fall and winter, quite a number of the residents are engaged in ducking, and a large revenue is derived from this source. Another branch of industry, in favorable seasons, is the cutting and storing of ice; as much as 200,000 tons have been cut in one season. Probably the largest business carried on here is the re-shipping of anthracite coal. Two of the great mining and carrying companies are represented—the Penna. and the Reading, the former by Messrs. Hilles, Boyd & Co., and the latter by A. P. McCombs & Co.

There are here several fine Churches, a Town Hall, Odd Fellow's Hall, a High and Primary Schools, for white and colored. Population 2,000. T. M. Sumption, Postmaster.

HOWARD COUNTY.

HOWARD COUNTY is one of the smallest counties, having an area of 300 square miles, and a length of about 25 miles and a width of about 12 miles; is centrally situated between the head waters of the Patapsco and Patuxent Rivers, the west branch of the former stream separating it from Carroll and Baltimore Counties on the north and east, and the main branch of the Patuxent binding on the south-west between it and Montgomery and Prince George's Counties. Anne Arundel County, (of which it was a part until 1850), binds it on the south-east.

This county is very undulating and the soil mostly good, though not all improved, with considerable fine limestone land in the central and southern parts. It is completely intersected with spring branches flowing into the larger streams, and affording a large amount of excellent water powers, which are mostly improved by factories, mills, furnaces, &c. Some of the very best water powers and largest factories in the State are on its two boundary streams. Inexhaustible quarries of granite exist in the county; one variety near the upper end of the county much resembles the famous Quincy granite. The largest quarries, or those most extensively worked, are at Sykesville and Woodstock, on the Patapsco, and from which stone the Cathedral and Record Office in Baltimore were built. Another variety, called porphyritic granite, has reddish crystals of feldspar disseminated through it. There are large iron ore beds next to Anne Arundel County and near the Washington Railroad. Howard has thirty-one miles of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad on one side, and twelve miles of the Washington Branch on the south-east, which, together, give convenient access to almost all parts of the county. This accessibility, with the eminent natural advantages of pure air and water, and innumerable beautiful building sites, are promoting improvements, and the vicinity of the railroads is being built up with fine country seats.

Seven miles west of Ellicott City is the estate of Dougheregan Manor, once the home of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, now owned by the present Governor of Maryland, Hon. John Lee Carroll, and other Carroll heirs. This estate contains nearly 14,000 acres of the finest land in the county. Has a postoffice, Harper Carroll, Postmaster, who also owns a mill. A general store owned by D. J. Foley. M. E., P. E. and Roman Catholic Churches and public schools near. The farm products are wheat, corn, potatoes, oats, tabacco and hay. These, with the various ore mines, large cotton manufacturing, and other business interests, afford remunerative employment to the people and add much to the wealth and prosperity of the county.

ALBERTON

Is on the B. & O. R. R., 16 miles from Baltimore. Is a rapid growing and fast becoming the most flourishing village in the county. The business is derived from the extensive cotton mills located here.

These mills are owned by the firm of Messrs. James S. Gary & Son, (now organized as the "Gary Manufacturing Company of Maryland,") who have operated them since 1858. During the whole of this period the spindles have been kept in motion, except for a few weeks in the year 1868; stoppage at that time being necessitated by the great freshet which occurred in the summer of that year, and which resulted so disastrously throughout the whole of the valley of the Patapsco. Additions have been made from time to time to the mill property, until now it is one of the largest establishments of the kind in the State.

The proprietors have provided ample church and school accommodations for the operatives and their families. Besides these institutions there are flourishing temperance societies and building associations, with considerable accumulation of capital.

The mills and several other buildings are lighted with gas, and a large reservoir on the adjacent heights furnishes an abundant supply of pure water for drinking purposes, as well as a ready protection against fire.

The factory grounds are regularly laid off with gravel walks, and adorned with trees and shrubbery. In the summer several beautiful fountains are kept constantly playing.

Population 800. James S. Gary, Postmaster.

CLARKSVILLE

Is 10 miles from Ellicott City; land good, is worth $40 per acre, and yields 10 bus. wheat, 40 oats, 25 potatoes and 30 corn. Population 20. Wm. C. Dorsey, Postmaster.

ELK RIDGE LANDING

Is on the B. & O. R. R., 9¼ miles from Baltimore, pleasantly situated near the Patapsco River, over which the Railroad crosses by the Thomas Viaduct, an imposing granite structure 66 feet high, 8 arches, each of which is 60 feet span. Elk Ridge Landing is one of the oldest towns in the State and for a long time contended with Baltimore for the commerce of the northern part of the colony. It was a great tobacco market, and where now there is a meadow and a marsh, vessels came for their cargoes of tobacco. The land is excellent, principally cleared; is worth from $50 to $500 per acre, according to location and improvements, readily produces 15 to 30 bus. wheat, 25 to 60 corn, and 2 tons hay. M. E. Church, Rev. G. W. Hobbs; P. E., Rev. J. T. Meade; Roman Catholic, Rev. Father M. Stanton. Several public schools. Population 150. James Earp, Postmaster.

ELLICOTT CITY,

The county seat, is situated on both sides of the Patapsco River, and lies partly in Howard and partly in Baltimore Counties. It is distant fifteen miles from Baltimore City by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and ten miles by the Baltimore & Fredericktown Turnpike. It was formerly known as Ellicott's Mills, but was incorporated by the General Assembly of 1867, since when it has been called Ellicott City. The scenery about the city is noted for its beauty and picturesqueness. The well known flour mills of Gambrill & Co. are situated there, and there are also within its corporate limits several celebrated institutions of learning—among them being the Patapsco Female Institute and Rock Hill College. The country around is noted for its healthfulness and the fertility of its soil. Farm lands sell readily for between sixty and a hundred dollars per acre, and the farmers find a ready market for their wheat at the flour mill. Truck farms are numerous, and all kinds of vegetables, fruit and poultry, meet with quick sales from the various grocery stores and families of the city.

The city has entirely recovered from the disastrous effects of the memorable flood of 1868, and is now in a flourishing and prosperous condition. Its proximity to Baltimore, together with its railroad conveniences, render it a desirable residence for those wishing to combine the pleasures of country and city life, and many persons doing business in the metropolis make their homes in the neighborhood of Ellicott City. Population 2,900. R. N. Wharry, Postmaster.

PINE ORCHARD

Is on the Frederick Turnpike 5 miles from Ellicott City. St. Charles College for boys and young men is here situated; and the improvements lately made to the buildings are by far the largest and most important in the county.

The original building, the corner stone of which was laid by the Honorable Charles Carroll of Carrollton, (then aged 94 years,) July 11, 1831, has received additions from time to time until it has become one of the largest and most complete collegiate institutions in the State. The length of the new edifice is 147 feet, depth 65. It is three stories high, with a commodious basement and attic. It is partly faced with cut granite stone. The halls are large and commodious. The height of ceiling averages 15½ feet. It is thoroughly lighted with gas and well heated in every part with hot water, and possesses all the conveniences of modern improvements. The length of the whole edifice measures 367 feet, and it is one of the handsomest and most commodious in the State. The lands surrounding produces fair crops of wheat, corn, oats, hay, tobacco and potatoes. Churches and a public school in the vicinity. Population 50. C. A. Gering, Postmaster.

KENT COUNTY.

KENT COUNTY is the second in the tier of Eastern Shore counties; has an area of 318 square miles, and is bounded on the east by Delaware, and is a peninsula lying between the Sassafras River on the north, separating it from Cecil County, the Chesapeake Bay on the west, and the Chester River on south and south-east, separating it from Queen Anne's County.

The first settlement of the county was made by William Clayborne and a Protestant colony from Virginia, with Rev. Richard James of the Church of England, Rector. The settlement was organized and represented by Captain Nicholas Martin, in the Legislature of Virginia, several years before the charter of Maryland waa granted to Lord Baltimore. The first county seat was the "Towne on Kent Island;" the second was New Yarmouth, on Gray's Inn Creek, where the first session of the County Court was held 22d June, 1686.

The county is level though not very low, and sufficiently rolling to be well drained by many creeks flowing into its border rivers and the Bay. The soil is mostly a light friable clayey loam, very easily improved and productive. Wheat, oats and corn, and every variety of vegetables, grow abundantly. The farms are very fine where attended with any care, and nearly every farm has its orchard of hundreda, and in some instances, thousands of peach trees, producing immense crops of this delicious fruit, which are taken to market by the Sassafras and Chester River steamers, which run daily most of the year. Several single peach orchards in the county yield sufficient to employ one steamer in the fruit season. Other fruits grow well where cultivated.

Kent has abundance of fine fishing, and on the Bay shore and in Chester River inexhautible oyster beds, which give employment to a large portion of the population, and during the season is generally surrounded by flocks of thousands of wild ducks, awans, &c., which also afford fine game and much profit to many persons. The productions are wheat, corn, oats, potatoes, wool, hay, live atock, and orchard products. The Kent County & Smyrna & Delaware Railroad, and the Chester and Sassafras Rivers, offer every facility for freight and travel during all seasons of the year.

Kent County has given to Maryland many of her ablest and most distinguished citizens, among whom may be mentioned, with pride, Captain Robert Vaughan, Colonel Hana Hanson, Thomas Ringgold, merchant; Colonel Isaac Perkins, Judge Ezekiel Forman Chambers, and Hon. James Alfred Pearce. In the city of Baltimore old Kent is now worthily represented by Hon. S. Teackle Wallis, at the bar, and by the eminent merchant, Mr. James Hodges, in commercial and financial circles.

CHESTERTOWN,

The county seat, is the third county seat since its settlement in 1627-8, and organization in 1642. In 1706 Chestertown, (called the Town of Chester,) was laid off upon a tract of land, containing one hundred acres, "on a plantation of Mr. Joce's," but languished until 1730, when an impetus was given by increasing traffic and a growing population. Being a port of entry, its foreign trade was extensive and very remunerative. Large warehouses were built, and elegant and commodious residences were erected by its wealthy inhabitants. It soon became the fashionable centre of a highly cultivated and refined circle. In 1752 it boasted a handsome Town Hall and a convenient Theatre, and was inferior to no provincial town on the continent in intellectual culture and commercial importance.

The trade of the town now is largely dependent upon the natural products, fruit, grain and vegetables, of the well cultivated and productive lands of the county. Manufactories of agricultural implements, carriages and iron-ware, are already successfully established; but there remains a good opening and wide field for many branches of skilled labor and enterprise.

As a place of residence and business, Chestertown proposes many advantages. It is beautifully situated on the right bank of Chester River, about 60 miles by water from Baltimore, and is distant about 90 miles by rail from Philadelphia. It is, therefore, within easy reach of either city, and can avail itself of the markets of both. The market of Chestertown is well supplied with butcher's meats, of every kind, poultry, fish, game and oysters, and, in their season, with an abundance of the best fruits and vegetables.

The inhabitants are kind, generous, hospitable, and are well provided with comfortable places of public worship, and the means for the proper education of their children.

The schools in town, public and private, are very good, and afford every facility for the acquisition of a solid education in all the important English branches. Near town, within a walk of five minutes, is the venerable Washington College, founded in 1783, presided over by a learned faculty, and capable of imparting a thorough collegiate education; covering a commanding eminence near, is Chester Cemetary, a beautiful burial place for the dead.

Population 2,000. John W. Collins, Postmaster.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY, having an area of 508 square miles, is bounded on the south-west by Virginia, on the north-west by Frederick County, on the north-east by the Patuxent River which separates it from Howard County, and on the south-east by Prince George's County and the District of Columbia.

Large quarries of sandstone are opened near the mouth of Seneca Creek, of which the Smithsonian Institute, at Washington, is built, and also a marble quarry near the Potomac above Poolesville. A quarry of excellent roofing slate has been opened near Hyattstown. Other varieties of building stones exist but are not yet developed to any extent. Several gold mines are being worked in the northern part of the county and near the Great Falls of Potomac. Also chrome ore has been largely extracted from the central part of the county.

The surface of the county is mostly hilly, and gives rise to many branches and creeks, which possess some of the finest water-powers, this being, in fact, one of the features of this county, most of the streams having very considerable fall in but a short distance. The Great Falls of the Potomac belongs to Montgomery County, and constitutes perhaps the grandest available water-power in the Union. These water-powers are partly improved with a number of large flour and grist and saw mills. The soil varies greatly, the western or upper part of the county being a finely cultivated and fertile region, whilst the more northern part although more thickly settled, is a thinner and poorer soil. The eastern section, near to Howard and Prince George's Counties, is mostly a light sandy, with some clay land, and exhibits, in its vast improvements about Sandy Spring, what may be accomplished by industrious skillful tillage. These lands, which were formerly almost a wilderness, with a value of two or three dollars per acre, have become an excellent farming district, and worth $30 an acre and more.

This county binds the District of Columbia on the north-west and partly on the north-east, and from its proximity to Washington, (which is one of the best markets,) is being cultivated considerably in market farms. Its elevated and very healthy character is attracting many persons to locate country seats. The Chesapeake & Ohio Canal runs along its entire southwestern border, and the Metropolitan Branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, from near the "Point of Rocks" to Washington, through the centre of the county, affording convenient access to nearly all parts.

The productions are wheat, corn, oats, potatoes, tobacco, hay, wool, honey, butter and live-stock.

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY.

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY, having an area of 500 square miles, is the northern county of one of the peninsulas on the western shore of the Chesapeake. It is bounded by the Patuxent River on the east, Potomac River on the west, Montgomery and Howard Counties on the north, and Charles County on the south. It surrounds the eastern and north-eastern portions of the District of Columbia. No county in the State offers greater inducements to settlers. The Baltimore & Ohio and Baltimore & Potomac Railroads both pass directly through the county, and the main stem of the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad runs south through the fertile regions of the county, and the Southern Maryland & Point Lookout Railroad from Washington direct to tide water, also passes across this county, thus giving every acre of land easy and near access to the markets of Baltimore, Washington and Alexandria. The soil is mostly light loam, (mixture of sand and clay,) some localities running into clay and others into sand, and peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of all kinds of marketing, fruits, grapes and dairy purposes. Owing to its locality vegetation is about two weeks earlier than the locality of Baltimore, a large portion of the county being high and rolling and above tide water. Swamps exempt it from malarial objection. It abounds in springs of delightful water. The principal products are tobacco, corn and wheat. This county in the past has been celebrated for its wealth and tone of society, having furnished the State with six of its Governors, viz.: Ogle, two Bowies, Kent, Sprigg and Pratt. Owing to the abolition of slavery lands have deteriorated very much in value, about 50 per cent. of anti-bellum prices, and can be purchased at from $15 to $50 per acre, from half an hour to two hours of the three markets above named.

QUEEN ANNE'S COUNTY.

QUEEN ANNE'S COUNTY, having an area of 422 square miles, is on the Eastern Shore of the Bay, extending from the State of Delaware on the east to the Chesapeake on the west, and is bounded on the north by the Chester River and on the south by Talbot and Caroline counties. It includes Kent Island, the largest island in the Chesapeake Bay, which is about fifteen miles long. Kent Island is important in the history of Maryland as having been the site of the first white settlement within the State.

The surface is level and generally low, and the soils, though various, are mostly of the kind known as white oak soil, with a red clay sub-soil, and are easily worked, and with reasonable attention are very fertile, producing excellent crops of grains and grasses. Much of this county is very fine; Kent Island and the central section especially exhibiting very fine and flourishing farms. Vegetable or truck farms are becoming numerous, as also are fruit farms and peach orchards.

This county is two-thirds bounded by navigable water, placing nearly all parts of the county convenient to market by bay vessels and steamboats plying north and south of it daily. The water is good, and the county is drained by numerous creeks, along which patches of forest dot every farm. Marl is abundant, and is much used as a fertilizer. Queen Anne's has unlimited supplies of fish, oysters and wild fowl in the inlets surrounding its shores, and here can be found some of the finest wheat, corn and grass fields in the State, as well as peach, apple and pear orchards. The construction of the Queen Anne's Railroad gives daily communication with Northern cities, and brings some of the most productive lands convenient to the best and principal markets.

CENTREVILLE.

Centreville, the county seat, is situated at the head of Corsica Creek, an arm of the Chester River. It has a landing on this creek for sailing vessels, within one mile of the town. It possesses rare facilities for communication with Baltimore. A daily line of steamers arrive at and depart from Queenstown, seven miles distant on the Chester River. The town is picturesque, and its position fine, situated on a hill which rises somewhat abruptly from the plane of the creek. It is the terminus of the Queen Anne & Kent Railroad, which brings it in connection by rail with Baltimore, Wilmington, Delaware, and all of the great markets of the Union. The buildings, private and public, as well as the volume of business, attest the thrift and progress of the town. It is in the midst of a beautiful, healthful, and fertile country, which yields abundantly of grain and fruits. The climate, soil, health, and advantages of the town and surrounding country offer great advantages to those in quest of farms, truck gardens and fruit orchards. The land is three-quarters cleared, is composed of sand and clay loams, can be bought at from $10 to $75 per acre, according to location and improvement; yields 10 to 30 bus. wheat and 20 to 75 corn. Population 1,300. J. T. Hand, Postmaster.

ST. MARY'S COUNTY.

ST. MARY'S COUNTY, having an area of 429 square miles, occupies the south-eastern extremity of the western shore of the Chesapeake Bay, and forms a peninsula bounded south-westerly by the Potomac River, easterly and north-easterly by the Bay and Patuxent River, and on the north-west by Charles County, being almost insulated by the finest and deepest waters. This is the oldest county in the State, and claims the most prominent notice in the history of Maryland. The scenery along the river banks is particularly picturesque and beautiful, while the noble streams that gird them abound plentifully in fish, oysters, terrapins, and wild fowl. Of the Potomac, says Father White, (one of the first settlers of Maryland,) "a larger and more beautiful stream I never have seen. The Thames compared with it is but a rivulet. Bounded on the sides by no marshes, it runs between solid and rising banks;" scarce less could be said in compliment to the Patuxent River, though not so large; its meandering course and lucid water reflecting as a mirror the verdant banks and forests, presents a most lovely picture—the one furnishes a fair type of grandeur in the expanse of its water and deep bass of its heaving billows, the latter catching color from earth and sky on its glassy bosom, ever breathing music from its crystal shores, conveys the impression of a most refined and pleasing beauty.

Throughout the whole length of the county these two noble streams branch out their crystal arms as if vieing in their service to so fair a land. Averaging in length about 39 miles and in width about 11 miles of an undulating surface in the north-western part, low and level in the south-eastern portion, possessing a soil susceptible of the highest improvement, well wooded and watered throughout, this county at once presents the fairest handiwork of nature, only awaiting the enterprise and labor of a thrifty people to develop the latent wealth of her fields..

Father White, soon after his arrival at St. Mary's city, says: "We have been here but one month. I can however assert that the soil is especially rich. The earth, soft and black to the depth of a foot, is overspread with a fat and reddish colored clay;" but from excessive culture, without rest or renovation, it was afterwards much reduced in productiveness. Yet within the last thirty years a great improvement has taken place—lime and marl having been extensively used. Tobacco and corn are the staple crops of the county; the wheat is of an excellent grain and much sought after by millers. The climate much resembles that of the Eastern Shore, and it would no doubt prove as favorable to fruit, etc. No rocks or minerals are found, but marl is abundant. The county has excellent water communication by large steamers, which continually ply on the Bay, Potomac and Patuxent Rivers; the Potomac steamers running between Baltimore, Washington and Georgetown, and those on the Patuxent between Baltimore and Hill's Landing, Prince George's County. A stage line, traversing the interior of the county, connects the south eastern part with Baltimore & Potomac Railroad at Beantown station. There are no railroads in the county; but the Southern Maryland Railroad, of which the grading has been completed, designs connecting Point Lookout with B. & P. R. R. at Brandywine station: at present the work has been discontinued for want of means to carry it on, but, having progressed so far, it is to be hoped that at no distant day the whistle of the locomotive will awake to life and action the dormant virtues of the oldest county in the State. Point Lookout, at the mouth of the Potomac River, and Piney Point some distance above, are watering places, both celebrated for their invigorating sea air and excellent bathing grounds; they are highly fitted to become the favorite resorts of the country, but their improvements are by no means commensurate with their natural advantages. The former of these places during the late war was used for the confinement of Southern prisoners, and is now the graveyard of many gallant soldiers. A monument has been erected to their memory. Further up the river, at "Colton's" and "Blakistone's," also accommodations have been fitted up to render them popular places of summer resort; they both enjoy the patronage of many visitors from Baltimore and Washington, and promise to meet with success as watering places. Finely located on the banks of the Potomac, the former is about 25 miles and the latter about thirty miles from its mouth. Facing them, and very near to the main land, are several beautiful islands, named by Lord Baltimore and his party on their first arrival here, "The Herons," from the immense number of those birds that were found there. The largest of these, St. Clement's, (now called Blakistone's,) comprises about 80 acres of land, and is quite note-worthy in the early history of Maryland as being the first land in the State on which Lord Baltimore and his party set foot, 25th March, 1634. Here they touched on their way up the Potomac, and in the words of Father White, "on the day of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, (25th March,) we first offered the sacrifice of the mass, never before done in this region of the world"—"a cross was planted on the island and the country claimed for Christ and England."—(Bancroft.) Thence they proceeded to Piscataqus, oppposite Mt. Vernon, but after an interview with the chief of that tribe, fearing to settle so far in the interior among savages, they sailed down the Potomac and entered St. Mary's River, which they called St. George's. "This river," says Father White, "flows from south to north about twenty miles before it loses, like the Thames, the salt water taste; in its mouth are two harbors in which 300 ships of the line could ride at anchor."

About four miles from its junction with the Potomac they cast anchor opposite the Indian village of Yoacomico, afterwards the site of St. Mary's City; the native Indians were suffering from a more powerful tribe, the Sus-quehannahs, and were preparing to move to more secure parts; hence Calvert, by presents of axes, hoes, hatchets and a few yards of cloth, easily purchased about thirty miles of territory, which was called Augusta Caroline, afterwards St. Mary's county. According to agreement they were to occupy one-half of the town, and after the harvest the Indians would resign the whole, which they did agreeably, with mutual promises of friendship and peace; so that, in the eloquent language of Bancroft, "on 27th of March, 1634, the Catholics took quiet possession of the little place, and religious liberty obtained a home, its only home in the wide world, in the humble village which bore the name of St. Mary's."

This was made the seat of government for the Province of Maryland, and remained the capital until the ascendancy of the Protestant or Puritan element in 1692, when the Assembly, wishing to punish the friends of the Proprietary, most of whom resided there, but especially because the colony having so extended, it was inconvenient for those having business before the Legislature and the courts to attend, removed it to Annapolis.

The first Legislative Assembly was held at St. Mary's City, 26th Feb., 1635. After removal of the seat of government, the city lost its main prop and consequently fell. In 1671 it contained a little more than sixty houses, and to day there is not a relic left to mark its existence. Upon its site "The St. Mary's Seminary now stands, a school for young ladies, under the direction of Mrs. J. R. Thomas.

There are no towns of any size in this county, but those which do exist bear the impress of many years and are more or less associated with the earliest traditions of the State. Among these we come to Charlotte Hall. By an act passed 12th Nov., 1698, "Trustees were empowered to purchase lands adjoining to the Fountains of Healing Waters, called the Cool Springs," viz: "in St. Mary's County, for building houses, etc., for the entertainment of such poor impotent persons as should repair thither for cure."—(Bacon.)

"In 1723 an act was passed establishing a free school in each county. These schools were endowed and successfully carried on till the Revolution. Soon after we had achieved our independence, the donations of the free schools of Kent and of the two adjoining counties were merged in Washington College, Chestertown; those of the four lower counties of the Western shore were merged in Charlotte Hall, at a place in St. Mary's County called Cool Springs."

This is one of the cheapest and oldest schools in the State; it can boast among its graduates a long list of distinguished men; it has never once been suspended while others have, and it enjoys a valuable corps of teachers. At present it is under the superintendence of Prof. Herbert Thompson.

The public schools are agreeably located and profit by an excellent corps of teachers; the examinations for qualifications being in every respect calculated to elevate the profession. The public school buildings are rather inferior, though being steadily improved within the means of the School Board, but in the healthy condition of the treasury, in the valuable and meritorious officers, in the earnest untiring labors of the teachers themselves, the public schools of St. Mary's County may be said to challenge comparison with those of nearly any other county in the State.

Thus it is to be readily seen that every inducement is held out for immigration. "Monster farms" and scarcity of labor are the besetting evils. We ascertain from the old tax books that in 1776 the population was larger, the farms were smaller, and the price of land better than in 1876; the lands themselves are excellent, both as to surface and soil, abounding in handsome forests and beautiful streams; and even so cheap that it is difficult to fix upon an average price; this, be it said, is due to the scarcity of purchasers, but from forced sales, the average price of farming lands has been ascertained to be $10 per acre. The cash value ranges between $3 and $50, giving an average of about $20 per acre for the whole county.

The climate lends its benign influence to heighten the attractiveness. Owing to the proximity of the ocean, the winters are somewhat moderated by the Gulf Stream, while cool sea breezes relieve the heat of the summer; slightly malarious, but notably free from the more fatal diseases, such as consumption, pneumonia, pleurisy, typhoid fever, etc. The climate of St. Mary's may be justly considered as healthy and inviting.

The internal improvements are unobjectionable. Saw mills and grist mills may be found at suitable places, especially in the north-western part, where water power is furnished by the undulating surface. Mechanics of every necessary trade ply their busy work in sufficient numbers to favor the advance of business generally. Churches of various denominations are suitably located. The public schools are open to receive those desirous of free education, and all things combine to lend a cheerful welcome to those in search of homes.

The very rivers teem with luxuries, and while they beautify and irrigate the soil, afford profitable employment to many. It is the most unwholesome policy for persons to be seeking homes in the "far west," while such fair inducements are offered so near at hand. The very best investment for capital and labor both is here in the southern part of Maryland, where nature's stores, almost in primeval wealth, await the hand to unlock them; and it is to be hoped through such agencies, that St. Mary's County will yet do honor to the conspicuous place she holds in the history of the State of Maryland.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

SOMERSET is the southernmost Bay county of the Eastern Shore. It is bounded north by Wicomico County, east by Worcester, south by Pocomoke River and Sound, and west by Chesapeake Bay. The Pocomoke River, which forms the south-eastern boundary, is navigable into Worcester County. Other navigable waters are the Manokin and the Annemessex, and Little Annemessex rivers, and Wicomico and Monie Creeks. All these waters run a good distance into the county, giving water communication to nearly all portions. The county includes the large islands, South Marsh and Smith's, lying between the Chesapeake Bay and Tangier Sound. The surface is level generally, though sufficiently undulating to give a considerable number of mill seats, improved mostly by grist and saw mills for local uses.

The soil in the northern part is a sand and clay mixed, and the lower section is mostly a strong clay soil well adapted to the growth of grain. The productions of the county are principally corn, wheat, oats and potatoes, with some market vegetables and fruits. Sweet potatoes are cultivated very largely, and yield extraordinary crops. The soil of Somerset is particularly adapted to the growth of market truck, and with its mild climate, caused by proximity to the bay and ocean, no county can excel it in the production of early or tender plants. The greatest mine of wealth of Somerset County is in its inexhaustible oyster beds, which are unexcelled in their quality by any country known. These include the greater part of the Tangier Sound, which produces the famous Tangier oysters. The oyster trade employs a very large portion of the population on the islands and shores of the Sound and rivers. Fish and wild fowl are also abundant.

The Eastern Shore Railroad, Dr. Geo. R. Dennis, President, extending from Crisfield to Delmar, Delaware, affords ample accommodations for freight and travel to most all parts of the county. The Worcester & Somerset Railroad runs from Newtown and connects with the Eastern Shore Road a few miles North of Crisfield. These, with lines of steamers and sailing vessels, to different parts of the county, give unusual means of transportation, and place all sections in easy reach of the markets of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

PRINCESS ANNE

The County seat, is on the Eastern Shore R. R., 13 miles from Salisbury and 19 from Crisfield. The location is in a warm genial climate, near the head of Manokin River, 9 miles from Locust Point to which place grain, produce and other market supplies are carried in lighters. The land surrounding is cleared of the original timber and a second growth of pine, oak, gum, maple and beech is now standing. The soil is composed of sand and clay loams, and the mildness of the climate and warmth of the soil give equal advantages with any section for early truck farming. Berries, peas, melons and potatoes are produced in large quantities, and are profitable. Land can be bought at from $10 to $25 per acre, as to location and improvement; yields 10 to 40 bus. oats, 250 to 300 potatoes, two crops from the same land early and late, 10 to 25 wheat and 40 corn. Princess Anne was settled in 1715, is incorporated, and contains a Court House and Jail. P. E., M. E. and Presbyterian churches. Washington Academy and other schools. TALBOT COUNTY.

TALBOT COUNTY occupies a central position among the Eastern Shore counties, being immediately on the bay shore, and bounded southerly and south-easterly by the Choptank River and Tuckahoe Creek, the former separating it from Dorchester and the latter from Caroline County. It is bounded on the north by Queen Anne's, which is partly separated from it by Wye River.

Seven-eighths of the outline of Talbot is bounded by navigable waters, and it has also running inland Third Haven, Harris and Broad creeks, and St. Michael's and Miles' rivers, dividing it into peninsulas or necks, and several considerable islands, so that three-fourths of the farms have navigable water at their very doors, and of the balance the farthest is not five miles from a landing.

Talbot has a healthy, mild climate, (being tempered by the surrounding waters,) and is considered by its enterprising citizens as the garden spot of this section. The soil is a moderately heavy red clay loam, of very superior quality, easily tilled, retentive of manure, very productive, and highly adapted to the growth of timothy, clover, wheat and corn, as well as all kinds of fruits. The surface is neither hilly nor flat, but sufficiently undulating to afford perfect natural drainage, leaving the whole surface entirely clear of swamps, ponds and stagnant water. The land is entirely clear of stone and rocks. Marl, of a very superior quality and easy of access, abounds in almost inexhaustible quantities in nearly every section of the county.

The waters of the county teem with the finest fish and oysters, while all kinds of game and wild fowl are plentiful in season. The Maryland and Delaware R. R., running from Oxford on the Treadhaven River, to Clayton, Delaware, 54 miles, with the numerous steamers, sailing vessels, and other smaller craft, which traverse the adjacent waters, give to this county facilities for cheap transportation not excelled by any other county in the State.

EASTON,

The county seat, is the largest and most flourishing town in Eastern Md. It is conveniently located near the navigable waters of three rivers, being within one mile of steamboat landing at Easton Points, on Tred Avon; three miles east from Miles River and four miles west from Dover Bridge on the Choptank, at all of which points large steamboats run regularly to and from Baltimore. It is also the virtual terminus of the Maryland & Delaware Railroad, as here the offices of the Company, the repair shops and car houses are located. This road runs from Oxford, on tide water, to Clayton, 56 miles, where it connects with the Delaware Railroad for Wilmington, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Easton was incorporated in 1784, and is governed by a Board of Commissioners, three in number, who have power to enact ordinances, enforce police regulations, make improvements, and levy and collect taxes. The Commissioners serve for three years, one being elected each year, in April.

Easton contains several very elegant churches. The Protestant Episcopal and the Methodist churches are fine specimens of architecture, the first being

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

WASHINGTON COUNTY, having an area of 463 square miles, is situated in the extreme western part of the State, and bounded on the north by Pennsylvania, east by the Blue Ridge or South Mountains, separating it from Frederick County, south and south-westerly by the Potomac River, and on the west by Allegany County. The surface of the county is partly mountainous, being crossed by a number of ridges, between which, however, are several fine broad valleys, drained by Antietam, Conococheaque and Israel creeks. The minerals of the county have not been much developed. The principal rocks are limestone and slate. Iron ore is known to exist in abundance in several localities, and limestone in immense quantities. Hydraulic cement is found near Hancock, and below Williamsport is a hard calcareous slate, which splits into parallel layers, takes a fine polish, and is very durable. Emery (corundum) is found near the Antietam. The soil is principally limestone, with some slate and white oak land.

In the eastern part of the county is the great valley of the Antietam Creek, commonly called the Hagerstown Valley. This valley is mostly limestone land, which is unusually productive, and gives crops of wheat and other grains, unexcelled by any portion of the State. The wheat is equally fine in quality as in quantity, and is manufactured into excellent flour, there being a large number of mill seats, improved by fine merchant flour mills.

This valley has been made famous by the military operations of the great contending armies during the late war, and suffered largely from these operations. The great battle of Antietam was fought by the two armies with columns stretching north and south on either side and facing the town of Sharpsburg. So great is the natural wealth and comparative power of this valley and the industry of the people, that but few traces can now be seen of the damage then done. This county ranks with the most productive and best populated, and is well supplied with transportation facilities. The Chesapeake & Ohio Canal follows the entire border on the Potomac River, and the Washington Co. Branch of the B. & O. R. R., Western Md., and Cumberland Valley railroads, give speedy access to most all parts, offering competition and inducements for the business of the county, and adding much to its present growth and prosperity. The principal productions are wheat, corn, oats, hay, potatoes, rye, wool, butter and live stock.

COLLEGE ST. JAMES

Is 3 miles from Breathedsville, situated in the fertile Cumberland Valley. It takes its name from the college of that name which is here located, being one of the oldest institutions of the kind in the State; Henry Onderdonk is the head master, assisted by a full corps of efficient professors. The buildings and grounds are ample and well and tastefully laid out; a spring of pure water gushes forth from an immense limestone rock, while the fresh air is freely breathed from the mountains which are visible on all sides. The land is limestone, well cleared, sells at from $30 to $70 per acre, produces 20 bus. wheat, 40 corn, and 2 tons hay. Population 40. Henry Onderdonk, Postmaster.

HAGERSTOWN,

The county seat, is a thriving town, situated near the Antietam Creek, 8 miles from the Potomac River and 86 from Baltimore. The Western Maryland, Cumberland Valley, and Baltimore & Ohio Railroads centre here, each offering ample facilities for freight and travel with the cities of Baltimore, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Washington, and New York. The location is picturesque and in the midst of a rich, lovely valley, surrounded by some of the finest and most highly improved farms in the State. Its many natural advantages, attracting attention, manufactures have been established, giving employment to a large number of people, adding much to the wealth and population of this vicinity. The city is well built, lighted with gas, is incorporated, and is controlled by a Mayor and City Council; it has a court house and jail and some fine churches, and several well conducted private and public schools. Population 6,500. William Logan, Postmaster.

SHARPSBURG

Is on the road leading to Shepherdstown, 3 miles from Keedysville. The location is pleasant and in a healthy and fertile section, the surroundings of which are full of interest to tourists and others. The Potomac and Antietam rivers are near and offer excellent water power for most all purposes. The points of interest to be seen are the Maryland Heights, Belinda Springs, Black Rock and the National Cemetery. The situation of this cemetery is one of great natural beauty, and the view from the tower of the keeper's lodge is of unsurpassed loveliness. Standing on the top of this tower, which is itself on a high hill, you can view a large part of the battle-field of Antietam, the whole of the beautiful basin or amphitheatre, in the middle of which the village of Sharpsburg is situated. The land is well cleared; the soil, limestone, is valued at $75 per acre, as to location and improvement; yields 20 bus. wheat, 40 oats, 100 potatoes, 40 corn, and 2 tons hay; crops are generally good. P. E., M. E., Reformed, Evangelical Lutheran, Tunkard and M. E. (colored) churches. Public and private schools. A. F. & A. M.—Eureka 105. K. of P.—Magnolia 64. *I. O. R. WICOMICO COUNTY.

WICOMICO COUNTY was formed in the fall of 1867 out of portions of Somerset and Worcester counties, in accordance with Article 13th of the Constitution of the State, adopted in that year, and is bounded on the west by the Nanticoke River, separating it from Dorchester, south by the Wicomico River, Somerset and Worcester counties, east by Worcester County and north by the State of Delaware.

The surface of the county is level. The soil is various, being composed of clay, heavy black loam, and a light sandy soil. The principal crops are corn, wheat and oats. The soil is adapted to the raising of fruits of all kinds. In the upper section of the county, bordering on the Eastern Shore and Worcester and Pocomoke Railroads, strawberries and other small fruits are raised in abundance—strawberries being the principal and the best paying crop.

The inhabitants of the southernmost district of the county cultivate watermelons largely, realizing very handsome profits. The melons are sent by vessels to Boston, New York and other cities. The county has extensive beds of oysters, which furnish employment to a great number of her citizens, and adds much to her wealth and prosperity.

munication with Baltimore, the District of Columbia and all of the tidal communications from the Chesapeake and throngh its railroads with Baltimore and the markets east and north. It has a large and valuable trade in lumber, building material and grain. Its climate is genial and salubrious. The general health very good. It has good schools, churches and many elegant dwellings, a court house and jail. The surrounding country is admirably adapted to the early and profitable production of berries, truck farming, and offers large inducements to emigrants. Lands vary in price from $10 to $50 per acre, and produce 8 to 18 bus. wheat, 15 to 40 corn; Irish potatoes yield from 150 to 300 bus., and are considered one of the most remunerative crops; strawberries yield from 2,000 to 4,000 quarts per acre. The timber in the district is composed of pine, oak, chestnut, hickory and cypress. It has in the Peninsular House a most admirably appointed and generously kept hotel. Population 3,000. Wm. H. Cathell, Postmaster.

WORCESTER COUNTY.

WORCESTER COUNTY occupies the extreme south-eastern corner of the State, and comprises the entire front on the Atlantic Ocean of about thirty-three miles, from Delaware to Virginia, and is bounded on the north by Wicomico County and the State of Delaware, east by the ocean, south by the ocean and Virginia, and west by Somerset and Wicomico counties, from the latter of which it is separated by the Pocomoke River. The ocean beach of the county is a narrow sand bar thrown up by the surf, of a width varying from a few yards to over a quarter of a mile; between that bar and the mainland are large connected bodies of shoal water, known as Assawoman, Isle of Wight and Sinepuxent bays, and the upper part of Chincoteague Sound. There is now no connection between this water and the ocean, the last inlet having been closed of late years by the action of the water. Into these waters flows all the eastern drainage of the county, whilst that west of a slight central ridge flows into the Pocomoke River.

The prevailing soil is sand mixed with red and white clay. Bog iron-ore exists in numerous localities. Besides marsh, muck and peat, the county has a large supply of oyster-shell lime. Shell deposits are found covering several acres in extent, and sometimes to a depth of several feet.

Worcester is almost entirely an agricultural county, and the productions are principally corn, oats and potatoes, with immense quantities of oysters. Sweet potatoes are a considerable crop, and yield very abundantly. Fruits are being cultivated of late, and peaches and grapes do very well. The climate being much tempered by the ocean air, is mild, and permits the cultivation of many fruits and tender vegetables in the open air which cannot withstand the severe winters of more northern latitudes, besides producing strawberries and many other market products about ten days earlier than in the upper counties, bringing the highest price and largest profits.

This county, in common with the surrounding country, possesses a large share of the finest oyster-beds, and feeding-ground for vast flocks of wild fowl, ducks, brant, etc.

BERLIN

Is on the W. & P. R. R., 23 miles from Salisbury and 16 from Snow Hill. The surrounding country is level, healthy and fertile, and the future of this place promising. It is 7 miles by rail from Ocean City, one of the most safe and delightful sea bathing beaches on the Atlantic coast. The land adjacent is sandy and clay loams, capable of easy tillage and high fertility, well adapted to the growth of cereals, fruits and vegetables. It can be bought at from $10 to $30 per acre, and yields 15 bus. wheat, 30 corn, 15 oats, and 200 potatoes. There is an Episcopal, Presbyterian, two M. E. churches, a graded school and a colored school in the village; also Paran 64, I. O. O. F., and Evergreen 153, A. F. & A. M. Town Commissioners—L. D. Powell, President; E. B. Carey, B. NEWTOWN

Is on the Pocomoke River 20 miles from Snow Hill, and is the terminus of the W. & Somerset R. R., which gives it communication with the eastern markets. It has direct communication with Baltimore by an excellent line of steamers, the Eastern Shore Steamboat Co., and is extensively engaged in the manufacture of lumber and building material, has several ship yards, a steam marine railway and a manufacturer of fertilizers. Oyster packing and lime burning are flourishing interests. It has a large and well kept hotel, a graded high and other schools. The lands are well adapted to fruit growing, trucking and farming. They range in value from $7 to $25 per acre, as to location and improvement, yield 8 to 18 bus. wheat, 10 to 40 corn, 10 to 25 oats, and 125 to 200 potatoes. The character of the lands are diverse, having sand loams with red clay subsoil; sand loams and white clay formations in close proximities. The timber is composed of pine, oak, cypress and gum. Population 1,800. J. H. Vincent, Postmaster.

SNOW HILL,

The county seat, is situated on the Pocomoke River at the head of navigation, and on the Breakwater, Frankford & Worcester R. R., which connects it with all of the railroads of the Peninsula. It has a good trade in lumber, and does a thriving business with the surrounding country. It has good schools and churches, well kept hotels and excellent health. The soil of the P. O. district is mainly composed of sand loams, and admirably adapted to fruit and truck farming; the average price of lands for the district is from $5 to $20 per acre; they produce in wheat from 8 to 16, in oats about the same, corn 10 to 40 and in potatoes 100 to 200 bus. per acre. The timber is composed of oak, pine, hickory, poplar, gum and cypress. There is a graded and a public school. M. E., M. P., P. E. and Presbyterian churches. Ocean Lodge, I. O. O. F. Town Commissioners—Dr. Charles P. Jones, President; H. J. Clayville, Samuel J. Price, H. Bowen and William Riggin. Bailiff—Capt. Peter Truitt. Population 1,300. James S. BALTIMORE COUNTY.

BALTIMORE COUNTY is the most central of the northern tier of counties, and one of the largest in the State, being bounded on the north by Pennsylvania, east by Harford County, west by Carroll County, and south-west and south by the Patapsco Falls and River, separating it from Howard and Anne Arundel counties. This county, from its position surrounding the metropolis, is the most important in the State. The surface is uneven and varied, and the rivers and falls which traverse it afford immense water powers, and are the sites of the most extensive milling operations in the Union. The Little and Great Gunpowder Falls, Patapsco River and Gwynn's and Jones' Falls are improved with large carpet, cotton and woolen factories, furnaces, foundries, paper and flouring mills, all doing a large and flourishing business. The finest and strongest cotton duck and the best flour are here manufactured. In many parts fruits are extensively cultivated, and the vicinity of Baltimore is remarkable for the fine quality and profusion of its garden vegetables. Iron ores of the brown hematite order, magnetic oxide and carbonate species are found in many parts of the county, and smelted in small furnaces. South-west from Reisterstown are very extensive beds of chrome ore, yielding a large proportion of that article produced by our State, which furnishes the entire supply of chrome used in this country, and much of that used in Europe. The large beds of clay in the vicinity of Baltimore have always been celebrated for producing bricks unequalled in the country for uniformity of color and smoothness. This clay is also manufactured into stoneware and earthenware. Beds of clay for fire-bricks also exist in the same vicinity.

Large quarries of fine building stone are extensively worked, affording good granite and gneiss, in the vicinity of Baltimore. In the neighborhood of Texas and Cockeysville are unlimited quantities of excellent marble, the fine-grained white species used for the Capitol extension at Washington, and the alum marble, well known from its use in the construction of the Patent Office at Washington. Large quarries of limestone exist in many parts of the county; a great quantity is burned at Texas. Lime is abundant in Long Green, Dulany's, Greenspring, Worthington and other valleys, which valleys contain some of the very finest and most productive lands in the State. There are some fisheries on the bay shore, and some of the best points for shooting wild fowl. This county is well provided with traveling facilities; most of the roads leaving the city are turnpikes, whilst all the railway routes also centre here. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad running south-westerly and westerly; the Western Maryland Railroad north-westerly; the Northern Central extends the entire length of the county in a northern direction, and the Philadelphia Railroad towards the east. There are also horse railways running westerly to Catonsville, and northerly to Towsontown, seven miles from Baltimore. The county is in length about 35 miles, the greatest width is 28 miles, and the least width on the Pennsylvania line about 11½ miles, giving an area of 718 square miles.

BENTLEY'S SPRINGS

Is a mountain valley, enclosed by numbers of undulating knolls and heights covered with evergreens and wild flowers of every description, and springs of purest water burst from the hillsides and gush and gurgle through the shrubbery, till they are lost in the noisy stream below. This place is owned by Mr. C. W. Bentley, of Baltimore, and bears his name, and is situated thirty-one miles from Baltimore, on the Northern Central Railroad, 600 feet above tide-water. Embracing upwards of 260 acres of land, it forms one of the most beautiful and romantic spots in Baltimore county. The water at this place, as shown by Prof. Aikin's analysis, is highly medicinal, that of the principal springs resembling closely in composition and curative properties the water of the celebrated Lebanon Springs in New York State. Some years ago a hotel was erected with handsomely improved grounds. This hotel was burned several years ago. In the vicinity are a number of extensive paper mills. All the paper made at these mills is shipped from Bentley's, and the materials used are also received through this station. This, taken in connection with the agricultural products of the neighborhood and the other freight shipped from and to this station, makes this a place of no small import. Within two miles of this place are situated three grist mills in connection with several saw mills, which have become a necessary convenience for the farmers in the vicinity. A school house is also being erected to accommodate the pupils who now assemble in one of the lower rooms of the warehouse. The improvements may be briefly enumerated as follows: To the west, at the foot of a high hill, nestles "Sunny Side," the summer residence of Mr. Bentley; in front of this is a large stone warehouse, used for the storage of freight; a few yards south of this, on the opposite side, is a neat frame building, used as a store and residence; at some distance north and facing the station is located the M. E. Parsonage of Bentley Springs Circuit; this is a tasty frame cottage, so situated as to command a view of the beautiful surrounding scenery, and itself constitutes an attractive feature in the landscape of the romantic spot; still further north is the new M. E. Church, a fine large building, the material composing it being a fine quality of blue stone, which is abundant in this section. At a point between the railroad track and the parsonage Mr. Bentley is having erected a very extensive foundry, boiler and machine shop, the foundations of which are nearly completed. When this establishment is finished Mr. Bentley contemplates removing his establishment on Front street, adjoining Jones' Falls, Baltimore city. This will be the means of securing employment to a large number of hands, and of giving new life and excitement to this locality. The place promises to become a favorite summer resort very soon again, as the ground has been purchased from Mr. Bentley for the purpose of rebuilding the Glen House on a larger scale. Work will soon be begun, and the hotel will probably be ready for occupation by next season. Population 50.

CATONSVILLE

Is on the Frederick Road, 6 miles from Baltimore. The Baltimore, Catonsville & Ellicott City Passenger Railway cars leave every hour to and from the city. The Narrow Gauge Railway, which has been surveyed, reaching from Baltimore to Ellicott City via Catonsville, when constructed, will open up and develop one of the most beautiful suburban sections that environ the city. The surrounding country is filling up rapidly with country seats of retired merchants and business men of the city, and with the additional facility of the Narrow Gauge Railway, giving ingress and egress to the city in fifteen to twenty-five minutes, and low fare. With this improvement this section undoubtedly will attract the attention of capital, and its future will be one of great prosperity. Land, valuable, nearly all cleared, with some oak, hickory, ash, dogwood, popla., cedar and chestnut yet standing, and produces 20 to 25 bus. wheat, 40 oats, and 30 to 40 corn. M. E., P. E. and Lutheran churches. Public, private and German schools. Spring Grove Asylum, (a State institution for the insane,) an imposing, substantial and well conducted edifice, is located here. Population 2,000. C. P. Fusting, Postmaster.

WOODBERRY

Is on the N. C. R. W., 3 miles from Baltimore and pleasantly situated on the slopes of two hills, which form a valley through which runs Jones' Falls. It lies immediately north and east of Druid Hill Park, and is claimed to be the largest manufacturing village in the State. The iron works of Messrs. Poole & Hunt, the cotton mills of the Mount Vernon Co., W. E. Hooper & Sons, and the Messrs. Gambrills, are all in the vicinity. These establishments give employment to a large number of people and furnish the principal means by which it derives its prosperity. The country for miles around is attractive and in many places fine residences may be seen. There are churches of several denominations, public and private schools, a market-house, public halls, and lodges of K. of P., Mechanics, Masons and Odd Fellows. Population 9,000. J. TO CONSUMERS OF FILES!

I would respectfully solicit the attention and patronage to my price list for SUPERIOR HAND-CUT FILES AND RASPS, HARDENED BY BLAST FIRE AND WATER; and in doing so will try and explain the general verdict of consumers of Files, that Files are not as good as they used to be. This in most cases is too true, as the Files manufactured in large factories are without regard to nature of steel, hurried out by machine, and heated in lead, which is the quickest way, but a deadly enemy to steel; and in their headlong competition regard no law of elements, but looks; and in nine cases out of ten the advertisement of Files "Warranted Hand-Cut," is false.

Now I claim to make as good a File as the best of English Files, and warrant to make Re-cut Files stand equal to new.

Consumers of Files will do well to buy direct from me and save the profits to dealers. Buy a File which will do service, as most of the cheap Files now in the market are almost useless, and most expensive in the long run.

FILES CUT EXPRESSLY for BRASS, IRON, WOOD or STEEL.

SAW FILES A SPECIALTY.

☞ Parties outside of the City sending Files to be RE-CUT will receive Prompt Attention, and Freight paid one way.

Price List for New and Re-cut Files, &c. Reference sent on Application.

THE BALTIMORE DAILY NEWS.

The daily circulation of the NEWS far exceeds that of any other paper in the States south of Mason & Dixon's Line, with one single exception.

The NEWS has the fastest and most modern and complete machinery in the Southern States, being the only paper south of Philadelphia printed from stereotype plates on the same style of perfecting presses that are used by the N. Y. Herald, N. Y. Sun, &c., feeding themselves with lightning speed, from continuous rolls of paper, and printing both sides at the same time.

Circulation in the city larger than that of all the other papers combined, with a single exception.

HYDRAULIC CEMENT PIPE,

The cheapest and most durable article that can be used for covering for Sewers, Drains, Aqueducts, Chimneys, Flues, Well Linings, Steam and other Pipes, etc.

These pipes neither rust out as iron, nor decay like wood and clay. Age and the action of water increase their durability. Heat, frost, acid, gas or alkaline matters or fluids do not affect them, and the material of which they are composed is both unchangeable and indestructible. Architects, Builders, Plumbers, Gardeners and the public generally, will find it to their interest to give this pipe a trial.

Also, Fancy Garden

REMOVAL.

The Baltimore Lock Hospital,

ESTABLISHED 1841,

Removed to 21 S. Gay St.

Having come under the management of DR. WORTHINGTON, that gentleman can now be consulted at any time, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 9 P. M., upon all diseases of the GENERATIVE SYSTEM.

SYPHILIS—Primary, Secondary, Tertiary, Skin Eruptions and all blood taints; also, SPERMATORRHŒA, the baneful effects of early indiscretions, which if neglected, destroy both mind and body; rendering marriage improper and unhappy, and is one of the high roads to consumption. General Debility, Lassitude, Languor, Dyspepsia, pains in Back and Head, Nervousness, Blushing, Bashfulness, Timidity, Tremblings, Nervous Prostration, also Loss of Memory, Depression, Forebodings, Self-Distrust, desire for Solitude, Confusion of Ideas, can all be permanently cured.

Those married or contemplating marriage, suffering from any of the symptoms described above will find a speedy CURE.

Dr. Worthington, who is a regular graduate of medicine and has had many years experience in Hospital and Special Practice, would caution parties desirous of consultation, that he is not connected in any manner with Mr. J. Clegg, who for a short time had charge of the above premises.
